

HARDING SEEKS EARLY ARRIVAL AT WASHINGTON

President Impatient to Reach Capital to Resume Work.

En Route With President Harding, Uniontown, Pa., July 8.—Impatient to reach Washington, and resume his contract with the pressing problems that confront the administration in the industrial situation, President Harding left the Summit house, in the mountains here, early this morning on the last leg of his long motor journey to the capital.

He hopes, barring mishaps, to reach Washington by early evening although hard and fast driving will be necessary to make it.

For a hundred miles today the route led through the mountains which made for slow progress. The president planned when he left here to reach Hagerstown, Md., for a late lunch at the country club and to be in Washington for dinner.

It is believed a number of telegrams received by the president, here last night prompted his decision to press on to Washington as early and as speedily as possible today. Among the messages were several from Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, the administration's chief negotiating officer in the conduct of the coal settlement.

As yet no word has come from the president that he has determined upon any definite line of action to get the warring factions together again and coal started from the idle mines. The belief prevails, however, that more vigorous action than has yet characterized the administration's policy in the strike will be seen next week if the miners and operators persist in their refusal to get together.

To Secretary Hoover's messages, President Harding merely replied last night, that he would be in Washington tonight.

Financial Collapse of Germany Is Now Inevitable British Officials Believe

Situation Fraught With Dangerous Possibilities as Politics Boiling Since Assassination of Dr. Rathenau—Fear Wave of Bankruptcy May Sweep Europe.

London, July 8.—British officials openly expressed fears today that the financial and economic collapse of Germany is inevitable. Premier Lloyd George is giving his personal attention to the problem. The British cabinet has it under advisement.

The value of the German mark (worth 24 cents each in pre-war days) has shrunk until it is possible to buy from 535 to 537 of them for one American dollar. It is reported that the supreme council may be asked to take up the German situation with a view to recommending relief measures.

The German situation, according to wide belief is fraught with dangerous political possibilities. Politics have been boiling in Germany ever since the assassination of Dr. Rathenau, with the communists and socialists combining against the monarchists and militarists.

Bavaria is said to be seething with monarchist activities. German officials in Berlin, supported by socialists and trade unionist leaders, are doing what they can to meet a counter revolution.

It had been reported that Great Britain approached George Harvey, the American ambassador with the informal request that the United States suggest means of preventing the complete collapse of Germany, but Ambassador Harvey denied this, according to the original report.

Premier Lloyd George intimated to Ambassador Harvey that Great Britain is ready to cooperate with the United States if American business men are able to arrange a program that will prevent Germany from going to pieces economically.

Premier Lloyd George is fearful that if Germany goes over the British think this will be the beginning of a wave of bankruptcy that will sweep Europe.

Austria, Hungary, Poland, Russia, Greece, Turkey, Portugal, Spain and possibly Italy are in a bad way financially. Their industries and are suffering heavily.

As to Germany, British officials believe that a loan must be floated or the French must consent to a scaling down of German indemnity. That the French will go no such thing is evident.

Gerard Expresses Belief That Nation Will Stand Strain

New York, July 8.—That Germany will weather the terrific political and financial storm through which she is now passing was the belief expressed by James W. Gerard, former American ambassador to Germany, who arrived from Europe today on the Cunard liner Berengaria. Mr. Gerard did not visit Germany while abroad but said that while he was in England and France he talked with many persons who had first hand knowledge of German conditions.

"I did not visit Germany because threats had been made against me as well as other well known Americans," said the former ambassador. "No doubt they would have taken a shot at me if they got an opportunity."

Mr. Gerard said that the chief reason for his visit was to assist Count Sigray (his brother-in-law) who was arrested in Hungary for his efforts to restore the late Emperor Charles to the throne. Count Sigray now is at liberty and has been elected to the Hungarian parliament.

HAGUE CONFERENCE NEAR BREAK DOWN AS RUSSIA BALKS

The Hague, July 8.—The international conference on reconstruction of Russia was on the point of a break down today. The delegations were pessimistic over the outlook. In view of the refusal of the Russian soviet delegates to refuse to make private property concessions, broadening would end next week.

The soviet delegates (evidently buoyed up by news of good harvests at home) are more stubborn in their attitude than they were at Genoa. They are persistently demanding credits as compensation for damage done to Russian property through allied military intervention in Russia.

The allied delegates, especially the French, and Belgians, declare that the Russians are making demands that cannot be fulfilled and it is understood that the French have threatened to withdraw immediately if the Russians do not modify their stand.

The arrival of Leonid Krassin has had no appreciable effect on the Russian policy. It is indicated that in addition to news of good harvests at home, the Moscow extremists are exerting more and more pressure upon muscovite delegation, of the rebels.

SEIZURE OF KEY MINES BY GOVERNMENT AS FINAL STEP DECIDED

Harding Administration Determines Upon Drastic Action as Means of Safeguarding Nation if Other Plans Fail

Washington, July 8.—Ultimate seizure of key mines to guarantee a supply of fuel for next winter has virtually been decided upon by the Harding administration as a final drastic step to end the nation wide coal strike, it was learned on reliable authority today.

The president is said to have held out for a postponement of this action until he had exhausted all efforts to achieve a peaceful settlement of the strike through arbitration. His advisers, however are urging him to end the strike on Monday with an executive proclamation ordering temporary government operation of "key" mines to meet the national emergency.

The president is understood to view this plan favorably, but will not make a final decision until he has consulted with Secretary of Commerce Hoover, Secretary of Labor Davis and other officials upon his return here tonight.

Attorney General Daugherty, it was learned today practically won the president's consent to the proposed action while on his visit to Ohio this week.

The president's "last hope" for arbitration was to offer a plan to the operators under which they were to agree to return the miners to work under the old wage scale pending a rehearing of the wage scale case and a thorough investigation of the mining industry.

In the miners camp it was freely stated today these terms would be acceptable but the operators said the settlement proposal "could not be given serious consideration."

With all peaceful means of settlement gone, the president would be compelled to turn to one of two courses: first, government operation of the mines, and second, private operation of the mines under the protective guarantee of federal troops.

The first course, now considered unavoidable, would not be an indication that either the operators or miners had won the strike, although in labor quarters, it will be taken as the fulfillment of a long desired shift in ownership. The use of troops to permit private operation, however would prove a vital blow at organized labor, it was said in the miners camp.

Sensors who have been in touch with the coal strike situation were outspoken today in their approval of the seizure of "key" mines by the government when all other efforts to end the tie-up failed.

RAIL STRIKE STILL IN FIGHTING STAGE: PEACE MOVES UNCERTAIN

Undercurrent of Settlement Sentiment During Earily Part of Week Has Not Come to Surface—Jewell Disagrees With Hooper.

Chicago, July 8.—The strike of railway shopmen entered its second week today with no definite move toward its settlement having been made and with few signs of peace in evidence.

The strong undercurrent of peace sentiment, which observers professed to note earlier in the present week has not come to the surface and so far as outward indications are concerned the controversy is still in the fighting stage. No one in authoritative circles would predict today when the end of the strike might come.

Although no serious outbreaks of violence have attended the strike thus far, turbulent tendencies have cropped up in several localities and in a few states troops have been mobilized for strike duty if necessary.

In other states troops have been asked but have not been ordered mobilized. In no state thus far have troops been put into actual strike service.

The question of the attitude of the brotherhood of railway signalmen toward the strike is to be determined at a conference today. D. W. Helt, head of the signalmen, has called all of his executive aids to Chicago and they will meet with the labor board this afternoon. It is expected the signalmen will follow the lead of the maintenance of way men and withhold strike action for the present at least.

Several minor outbreaks took place in Chicago during the night. Approximately 100 men armed with rocks and clubs, rushed several street cars on which they suspected railway workers who are not on strike were being carried to their jobs. Several men were taken from the cars and beaten. Shots were fired into a Chicago and Northwestern railway roundhouse but no one was injured. Homes of two men who remained at work when the strike was called were bombarded with missiles.

Jewell today flatly refused to agree to the terms proposed in Hooper's statement.

"If newspaper accounts accurately report that the labor board will not deal with the shopcrafts until the strikers are back on the job," he said. "I am afraid the prospects of peace negotiations have been indefinitely delayed. The strikers will not return to work before negotiations on the reduced wage schedule give them assurance of justice and a living wage."

BUS OPERATOR DENIES CHARGES TO PUBLIC UTILITIES

Columbus, July 8.—In an answer filed today with the State Utilities Commission, Carl Stoner, Dayton, denied allegations made in the complaint of the Dayton, Springfield and Xenia Southern railway company, that Stoner was operating a bus line between Dayton and Xenia at a low rate of fare with a view to killing competition.

Stoner admitted that his bus line is operated on a state road, that at points it runs parallel to the railroad company's line and also that his station at Xenia is near the company's depot, but he denied all other charges and asked that the matter be dismissed without further hearing.

The Dayton, Springfield and Xenia Southern Railway Company filed its complaint against the operation of the Dayton-Xenia bus lines with the State Public Utilities Commission several days ago, alleging unfair competition. The action is part of a fight which began when the bus line began operations between this city and Dayton, charging a lower rate of fare. Stoner and other bus operators, operating machines from Xenia to other cities in this vicinity, are also fighting the newly-passed city ordinance regulating bus operation and providing a license fee.

HARDING SEEKS EARLY ARRIVAL AT WASHINGTON

President Impatient to Reach Capital to Resume Work.

En Route With President Harding, Uniontown, Pa., July 8.—Impatient to reach Washington, and resume his contract with the pressing problems that confront the administration in the industrial situation, President Harding left the Summit house, in the mountains here, early this morning on the last leg of his long motor journey to the capital.

He hopes, barring mishaps, to reach Washington by early evening although hard and fast driving will be necessary to make it.

For a hundred miles today the route led through the mountains which made for slow progress. The president planned when he left here to reach Hagerstown, Md., for a late lunch at the country club and to be in Washington for dinner.

It is believed, a number of telegrams received by the president, here last night prompted his decision to press on to Washington as early and as speedily as possible today. Among the messages were several from Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, the administration's chief negotiating officer in the conduct of the coal settlement.

As yet no word has come from the president that he has determined upon any definite line of action to get the warring factions together again and coal started from the idle mines. The belief prevails, however, that more vigorous action than has yet characterized the administration's policy in the strike will be seen next week if the miners and operators persist in their refusal to get together.

To Secretary Hoover's messages, President Harding merely replied last night, that he would be in Washington tonight.

SEIZURE OF KEY MINES BY GOVERNMENT AS FINAL STEP DECIDED

Harding Administration Determines Upon Drastic Action as Means of Safeguarding Nation if Other Plans Fail

Washington, July 8.—Ultimate seizure of keys mines to guarantee a supply of fuel for next winter was virtually been decided upon by the Harding administration as a final drastic step to end the nation wide coal strike, it was learned on reliable authority today.

The president is said to have held out for a postponement of this action until he had exhausted all efforts to achieve a peaceful settlement of the strike through arbitration. His advisers, however are urging him to end the strike on Monday with an executive proclamation ordering temporary government operation of "key" mines to meet the national emergency.

The president is understood to view this plan favorably, but will not make a final decision until he has consulted with Secretary of Commerce Hoover, Secretary of Labor Davis and other officials upon his return here tonight.

Attorney General Daugherty, it was learned today practically won the president's consent to the proposed action while on his visit to Ohio this week.

The president's "last hope" for arbitration was to offer a plan to the operators under which they were to agree to return the miners to work under the old wage scale pending a rehearing of the wage scale case and a thorough investigation of the mining industry.

In the miners camp it was freely stated today these terms would be acceptable but the operators said the settlement proposal "could not be given serious consideration."

With all peaceful means of settlement gone, the president would be compelled to turn to one of two courses: first, government operation of the mines, and second, private operation of the mines under the protective guarantee of federal troops.

The first course, now considered unavoidable, would not be an indication that either the operators or miners had won the strike, although in labor quarters, it will be taken as the fulfillment of a long desired shift, in ownership. The use of troops to permit private operation, however would prove a vital blow at organized labor, it was said in the miners camp.

Senators who have been in touch with the coal strike situation were outspoken today in their approval of the seizure of "key" mines by the government when all other efforts to end the tie-up failed.

RAIL STRIKE STILL IN FIGHTING STAGE; PEACE MOVES UNCERTAIN

Undercurrent of Settlement Sentiment During Early Part of Week Has Not Come to Surface—Jewell Disagrees With Hooper.

Chicago, July 8.—The strike of railway shopmen entered its second week today with no definite move toward its settlement having been made and with few signs of peace in evidence.

The strong undercurrent of peace sentiment, which observers professed to note earlier in the present week has not come to the surface and so far as outward indications are concerned the controversy is still in the fighting stage. No one in authoritative circles would predict today when the end of the strike might come.

Several minor outbreaks took place in Chicago during the night. Approximately 100 men armed with rocks and clubs, rushed several street cars on which they suspected railway workers who are not on strike were being carried to their jobs. Several men were taken from the cars and beaten. Shots were fired into a Chicago and Northwestern railway roundhouse but no one was injured. Homes of two men who remained at work when the strike was called were bombarded with missiles.

Although no serious outbreaks of violence have attended the strike thus far, turbulent tendencies have cropped up in several localities and in a few states troops have been mobilized for strike duty if necessary. In other states troops have been asked but have not been ordered mobilized. No state thus far have troops been put into actual strike service.

Jewell today flatly refused to agree to the terms proposed in Hooper's statement. "If newspaper accounts accurately report that the labor board will not deal with the shopcrafts until the strikers are back on the job," he said. "I am afraid the prospects of peace negotiations have been indefinitely delayed. The strikers will not return to work before negotiations on the reduced wage schedule give them assurance of justice and a living wage."

TAFT IS PLEASED WITH ENGLISH TRIP

Liverpool, Eng., July 8.—"I am greatly pleased with my English visit; it has given me both pleasure and profit," said W. H. Taft, chief justice of the American supreme court just before sailing for home today on the liner Adriatic. Chief Justice Taft, who was formerly president of the United States has been in England about three weeks, having come here to study British court procedure. Few Americans have received so many high honors. He has been decorated for a number of the greatest universities, has met the royal family and has been entertained by the highest officials of the government.

BUS OPERATOR DENIES CHARGES TO PUBLIC UTILITIES

Columbus, July 8.—In an answer filed today with the State Utilities Commission, Carl Stoner, Dayton, denied allegations made in the complaint of the Dayton, Springfield and Xenia Southern railway company, that Stoner was operating a bus line between Dayton and Xenia at a low rate of fare with a view to killing competition.

Stoner admitted that his bus line is operated on a state road, that at points it runs parallel to the railroad company's line and also that his station at Xenia is near the company's depot, but he denied all other charges and asked that the matter be dismissed without further hearing.

The Dayton, Springfield and Xenia Southern Railway Company filed its complaint against the operation of the Dayton-Xenia bus lines with the State Public Utilities Commission several days ago, alleging unfair competition. The action is part of a fight which began when the bus line began operations between this city and Dayton, charging a lower rate of fare. Stoner and other bus operators, operating machines from Xenia to other cities in this vicinity, are also fighting the newly-passed city ordinance regulating bus operation and providing a license fee.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED HOBOKEN, N. J., July 8.—Fire apparatus here was called out today to fight a fire on the trans-Atlantic liner Nieuw Amsterdam, tied up at the docks of the Holland America line at the foot of Fifth street.

SPRING VALLEY TOWNSHIP RANKS HIGH IN FARM BUREAU WORK

Organization Takes Active Interest in Enterprizes Started---Cream Station Has Been Established.

E. J. KELSEY HEADS BODY THERE
Formation Of Elevator Marks Achievement---Has Two Plants Now In Operation Successfully.

The interest that has always been taken in Farm Bureau enterprizes, is one of the outstanding features that has placed Spring Valley township, at the top in county Farm Bureau circles.

E. J. Kelsey, president, E. C. Hartsock, vice-president, and L. E. Evans, secretary, are the officers leading this township in its successful ventures.

One of the most important business enterprizes of benefit to the farmers that has been inaugurated in Spring Valley township, under the Farm Bureau regime, has been the local cream station, in connection with the Miami Valley Cooperative Milk Producers' Association, in which Sugar Creek and Spring Valley township farmers in effecting a paying enterprise.

Joseph Smith, is president of the dairy organization at Spring Valley while Collins Turner, is vice-president, E. C. Hartsock, secretary, and E. J. Kelsey, treasurer and advisory councilman. The station was started June 7, under the management of Louis Hartsock, and son. The company, with the other three Farm Bureau dairy organizations in operation at Cedarville, Jamestown, and Yellow Springs, has proven invaluable in promoting Farm Bureau interests, in the county, it is stated.

To Spring Valley township goes the credit of organizing the most successful Farm Bureau elevator in operation in the county to date, with two plants under way in Roxanna and Spring Valley. The elevator has been in operation during the past two years, in charge of the Spring Valley Farmers' Exchange, and due to efficient management and loyalty on the part of the patrons, of the organization, has developed a large business.

Under the supervision of J. R. Peterson, the Greene County Livestock Shipping Company, has shipped out of Spring Valley a number of live stock since its organization, this point being one the few important shipping places in the county.

In 1921 in Spring Valley township, one of the leading projects was the poultry culling demonstrations, of which four were held during the year, led by Mrs. E. J. Kelsey, who has been the leader in the poultry work in the township during the past year, also.

During the past two years, another project in the township has been the increasing popularity of selecting wheat varieties by the farmers, the Gladden variety proving especially popular in that vicinity.

A permanent poultry farm, on the farm of C. D. Miers, at New Burlington, has been in operation, where the records of the number of eggs laid, with the cost of producing the poultry and the eggs each year, have been kept.

Through the soils committee in Spring Valley township last year, a lime demonstration was held on the farm of Roy Smith, which will carry through three years, to illustrate the benefits received by the deposit.

Women of Spring Valley township have not lagged behind their sisters in the county, and have been active in all branches of farm Bureau work. Mrs. John Soward, was the leader of the dress form campaign in the township, during last year, seventy forms being completed by the women enrolled in the work.

In the Boys' and Girls' Club work in the township, C. P. Yowler has been in charge of the Pig Club, and also the stock judging club during 1921.

In the Pure Bred Sires Enrollment in the community, J. A. Harner has been in charge, and at the present time fourteen men have enrolled in the campaign, which is one of the important projects, in addition to the dairy organization.

Plans of the township are for a demonstration on good summer feeding methods in poultry, which will be in charge of Mrs. E. J. Kelsey, the poultry committeeman.

The corn root rot test has entered have on hand for fall sowing a good deal more certified wheat of the pure line varieties than was available in the fall of 1921, according to Wallace E. Hanger, secretary of the State Association, and crop specialist of the Ohio State University.

The 750 farms that are trying for seed certification have all planted standard recommended varieties, the most important three of which are Trumbull, Gladden and Portage. Portage is showing rather serious mixtures in certain southern counties, the inspectors say, but the crop in other counties is fairly free from variety mixtures. The worst weed trouble encountered comes from cheat, which is thicker than it has been for years.

Following field inspection will come bin inspection, here and there, and then a thorough assay of the threshed grain for purity, variety trueness, and viability.

L. M. GARFIELD IS CALLED BY DEATH SATURDAY MORNING

After an illness extending over three years, L. M. Garfield, 72, well-known Xenia and Greene county resident, who for 44 years was connected with the operation of the powder plant at Goes, died at his home on North Detroit Street, a 10:15 o'clock Saturday morning.

Mr. Garfield suffered a stroke of paralysis three years ago last November from which he had never fully recovered. At times during the last three years, his illness became worse than at others, and for the last ten weeks his condition had been critical and he had been confined to his bed.

Lyman Morse Garfield, was born in Concord, Mass., July 25, 1849, the son of Moses B. and Lydia Morse Garfield. When a child, his parents moved from Concord to Lawrence, Mass., where Mr. Garfield received his early education in the public schools. When thirteen years of age he was placed to learn the trade of shoemaker and was thus engaged two years when at the age of 15 years the Civil War broke out, and he obtained a position in the commissary department and was stationed during the years of 1864 to 1865 at Camp Douglas, near Chicago, where Confederate prisoners were interned.

At the completion of his term of service, Mr. Garfield joined his parents at Boston, to where they had removed from Lawrence, and there assisted his father in the sign painting business. While there he also learned telegraphy and in 1873 came to Greene County with A. O. Fay, proprietor of the plant of the Miami Powder Company at Goes, where he was installed as telegrapher. Two years later, in 1875, he was made superintendent of the powder mills, and when the Miami Powder Company sold out to the Aetna Explosive Company in December, 1914, he was retained in that position, continuing as superintendent of the plant until his retirement in January, 1918. Not long after becoming identified with the Miami Powder Company, Mr. Garfield became a stockholder in that concern and retained interest from that time on. Many years ago he was elected a director of that concern, and for years was one of the most forceful figures in the operation of the plant. It was under his supervision that the black powder plant at Fayetteville was erected.

Mr. Garfield has been a faithful member of the First Methodist Episcopal Church since coming to this city, and has been strongly identified with church affairs. He was a member of the official board for years, and for 15 years served as church treasurer, a position he gave up on his retirement from active business. He was also a member of Royal Arcanum Lodge of Masons of this city.

December 14, 1871, Mr. Garfield married Maria Louise Hawes, of Boston, Mass., who survives him with five children. They are, Mrs. Clarence Whitmer, of Chicago; Mrs. Walter Currie, and Mrs. E. S. Davidson of this city; Mrs. J. E. Webb of Junction City, Ohio, and Arthur L. Garfield, of this city, who is secretary of the Bocklet-King Company here. Two other children, preceded their father in death, Ethel who died in 1884 and Howell, who died April 13, 1909, at the age of 17 years. One brother, M. H. Garfield, of Maryland, died 12 years ago. Mrs. Whitmer was here at the time of her father's death having come here two weeks ago. Mrs. Webb was here until last Sunday when she returned to her home.

Funeral services will be held at three o'clock Monday afternoon at the First M. E. Church and burial will be made in Woodland cemetery. Friends may call at the home any time after three o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Lyman Morse Garfield, was born in Concord, Mass., July 25, 1849, the son of Moses B. and Lydia Morse Garfield. When a child, his parents moved from Concord to Lawrence, Mass., where Mr. Garfield received his early education in the public schools. When thirteen years of age he was placed to learn the trade of shoemaker and was thus engaged two years when at the age of 15 years the Civil War broke out, and he obtained a position in the commissary department and was stationed during the years of 1864 to 1865 at Camp Douglas, near Chicago, where Confederate prisoners were interned.

At the completion of his term of service, Mr. Garfield joined his parents at Boston, to where they had removed from Lawrence, and there assisted his father in the sign painting business. While there he also learned telegraphy and in 1873 came to Greene County with A. O. Fay, proprietor of the plant of the Miami Powder Company at Goes, where he was installed as telegrapher. Two years later, in 1875, he was made superintendent of the powder mills, and when the Miami Powder Company sold out to the Aetna Explosive Company in December, 1914, he was retained in that position, continuing as superintendent of the plant until his retirement, in January, 1918. Not long after becoming identified with the Miami Powder Company, Mr. Garfield became a stockholder in that concern and retained interest from that time on. Many years ago he was elected a director of that concern, and for years was one of the most forceful figures in the operation of the plant. It was under his supervision that the black powder plant at Fayville was erected.

Mr. Garfield has been a faithful member of the First Methodist Episcopal Church since coming to this city, and has been strongly identified with church affairs. He was a member of the official board for years, and for 15 years served as church treasurer, a position he gave up on his retirement from active business. He was also a member of Royal Arcanum Lodge of Masons of this city.

December 14, 1871, Mr. Garfield married Maria Louise Hawes, at Boston, Mass., who survives him with five children. They are, Mrs. Clarence Whitmer, of Chicago; Mrs. Walter Currie, and Mrs. E. S. Davidson of this city; Mrs. J. E. Webb of Junction City, Ohio, and Arthur L. Garfield, of this city, who is secretary of the Bocklet-King Company here. Two other children, preceded their father in death, Ethel who died in 1884 and Howell, who died April 13, 1909, at the age of 17 years. One brother, M. H. Garfield, of Mayard, Mass., died 12 years ago. Mrs. Whitmer was here at the time of her father's death having come here two weeks ago. Mrs. Webb was here until last Sunday when she returned to her home.

Funeral services will be held at three o'clock Monday afternoon at the First M. E. Church and burial will be made in Woodland cemetery. Friends may call at the home any time after three o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. George Webb and two daughters, Elizabeth Jane, and Mary Margaret, of Anderson, Indiana, are visiting Mrs. Webb's mother, Mrs. Luella Jackson, of West Church Street.

Miss Mary Hazel Hussey, of Bowersville, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Celia Padgett, of Columbus, for the summer.

PRESIDENT'S LOT FAR FROM EASY ONE, HARDING SAYS; LONGS TO BE "HOME" AGAIN.

Warren G. Harding, who rode into Marion forty years ago on a white mule and came back Tuesday in a limousine as the President of the United States, prefers Marion to the White House and Washington.

"I'll welcome the day," the President told the Marionites, "when I can come back to stay with you permanently. A great many people think it is a fine thing to be President, and I suppose it is the best thing to let them continue such a pleasant dream. But I know better, and I would like nothing better than to be a Marionite again."

"At the risk of being undignified, I will relate an experience. My father had moved to Marion from a farm near Caledonia the winter before I came.

"When he moved to Marion he left a mule behind, because the mule was known so well in the vicinity that he could not be sold at a profit, and yet so valuable that he could not sacrifice it. So when I came to Marion, July 1, I was permitted to ride the mule, as it was the easiest way to bring me here. I started early in the afternoon, but this mule had only one gait. You couldn't throw him into second or third, and you couldn't step on the gas or anything.

"The evening shades were falling when I reached the vicinity of the Roberts farm, three or four miles out of Marion. The situation was looking dark to me, and I stopped to ask an old fellow who was smoking a pipe how far it was to Marion. Without cracking a smile, he replied: 'Well, if you are going to ride that mule, it is farther than you'll ever get.'

"As I neared the town the evening bells were ringing for the mid-week prayer. I do not know that I have ever heard a concert of bells that sounded so sweetly.

"If I could go back somehow to that day I would make a little more permanent and a little more influential the tendency to religious worship that is the softening influence in American life."

PROHIBITION AND THE RIGHT TO WORK STRONGLY UPHOLD BY HARDING.

Warren G. Harding's effort to forget he is President of the United States and to greet his home-town people with simple words of renewed acquaintanceship failed as he stood before 50,000 of them at the Marion Fair Grounds.

Governments, the President said, speaking with great earnestness, cannot tolerate class or group domination. It will be a sorry day for the American people, he predicted, when such domination is reflected in national law.

"A free American has the right to labor without any other's leave," the President asserted, referring directly to the recent murder of more than a score of workers in the mine fields of Southern Illinois. "It would be no less an abridgement of right to deny men to bargain collectively. The Government cannot tolerate any class or group domination by force. Government, and the laws which it is charged with enforcing, must be for all the people ever aiming at the common good."

The President's words gave added significance to statements of General Pershing, who spoke just before the President.

"When whole communities," said General Pershing, "openly sympathize with ruthless murder of inoffensive people in the exercise of their right to earn a living and where wholesale murder goes unpunished, it is imperative that public opinion should demand the strong arm of the law, under fearless officials, take positive action."

The President's remarks had the familiar ring of his campaign utterances and his castigation of group and class legislation and the tendency of self-center minorities to attempt to dictate to Government, was only a repetition of his Labor Day speech of 1920, delivered at the same place and to many of the same people. But Mr. Harding spoke with greater sureness, or at least a greater conviction, born of a year and a half experience as President and with the knowledge that only responsibility can give.

The President also had other warnings for his hearers, in one of which, on the subject of prohibition, he differed from his Secretary of War, Mr. Weeks.

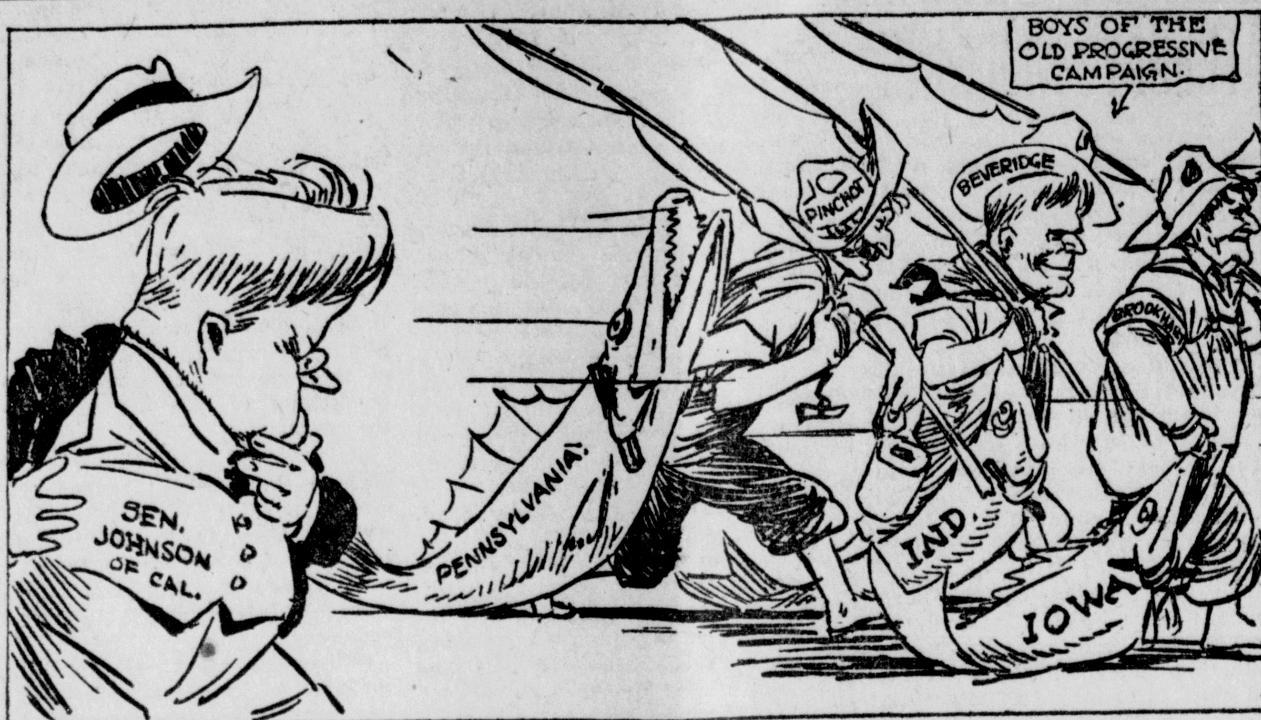

"The Eighteenth Amendment," said the President, "denies to a minority a fancied sense of personal liberty, but the amendment is the will of America and must be sustained by the Government and public opinion, else contempt of the law will undermine our very foundation."

The efforts of certain individuals and groups, which have power to influence public opinion, to inflame the people or misrepresent national events, were deplored by the President.

"My one outstanding conviction after sixteen months in the presidency," asserted the President, "is that the greatest traitor to his country is he who appeals to prejudices and inflames passion, when sober judgment and honest speech are so necessary to firmly establish tranquility and security.

"I have no fear about the Republic. We are not only stronger, but we are morally better than when we began. If there is seeming excess of exploitation, profiteering, dishonesty and betrayal, it only is because we have grown larger, and we know the ills of life and read of them more than the good that is done. I do not wonder that the ignorant and ill-informed are made restless by the magnified stories of public abuses and proclaimed privileges. We need the truth, only the truth, the wholesome truth, as the highest aid to Americanization and the manifestation of the higher patriotism. America will go on."

Palmer recently signed articles with the Miami Club for a bout between Jackson and Jamaica Kid, New York colored heavy, to be staged July 17. After signing the articles Palmer gave Yinger a check for $500 to guarantee Jackson's appearance on the date set.

Some days later, after the Dayton club had gone a head with its arrangements for the show, Yinger, received a wire from Palmer stating that he could not permit Jackson to go through with the fight. Yinger consulted an attorney and then deposited Palmer's guarantee check for $500, which came back marked "no funds," according to Yinger.

Today's Talk

CONCENTRATION ..

I am reminded time and time again that concentration is, in my humble judgment, one of the major virtues!

Take the average human worker today, give him a task and then leave him and you are almost sure to see a picture of wobbling and stargazing.

I have in mind a poor immigrant boy whose father and mother could neither read nor write, but whose desire to see their small boy do the thing they had missed, was so strong that the mother said she would rather starve than not see him get an education.

It has been my pleasure to see that boy rise year by year in usefulness and power. I have watched him work. He concentrates. He gets things done. Then he goes to other things—and gets them done.

What a debt the world owes to Marconi, the great inventor of the wireless telephone! It was only a little while ago that his announcements were received with doubt and skepticism. Now the entire world listens when he has an announcement, for they have seen the practical demonstration of his years and years of concentration. Recently this wizard man stated that he wanted the pleasure of sending a word around the world—in just a few minutes. I am one who expects to see him accomplish this ambition. You with the ability to concentrate and the inclination to plan ahead—the world wants you!

Concentration gets things started, puts them through to a finish—and then opens up new and more important things to do.

And concentration arouses interest, which is one of the greatest factors in any success.

I can imagine Columbus going to bed at night and waking up in the morning with but one single thought in his mind—new land, an undiscovered world!

For, after one of the most daring attempts in the history of the world at that time, he won his goal—because when everything and all on board seemed lost forever, this Columbus could give but one command: "Sail on—and on—and on!"

I'll change that command just a little and make it into a motto for you who read this brief talk: Keep on—and on—and on.

DAUGHTER HAD TO HELP MOTHER

Now Can Do All Her Housework Alone Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Jasper, Minn. — "I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it because I was having such pains in my stomach and through my back that I could not do my work. I had tried other medicines, but none did me the good that your Vegetable Compound did. Now I am able to do all my work alone while before I had my daughter staying at home to do it. I have told a number of friends what it has done for me and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. JESSE PETERSEN, Route 1, Jasper, Minn.

There is no better reason for your trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than this—it has helped other women. So if you suffer from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or are passing through the Change of Life remember this splendid medicine. What it did for Mrs. Petersen it may do for you.

The Vegetable Compound stands upon a foundation of nearly fifty years of service.

FOOLING AWAY TIME.

That my taste needs some correctives I admit with streaming eyes, for with yarns of cheap detectives I waste hours that I should prize. I should read the volumes deathless writ by men of bulging domes, but I follow, pale and breathless, the exploits of Sherlock Holmes. While my wiser neighbor traces Einstein's theory to its source, I, with Cleek of Forty Faces, mix with sinners vile and coarse. I pass up the stately diction of philosophers and seers, and the tinhorn sleuths of fiction are my comrades through the years. And my aunts, with eyes accusing, tell me how I'm wasting time, but I find the sleuths amusing, and they're surely not a crime. I have found it doesn't matter what a fellow likes to do; some one's bound to rise and splutter burning language over you. If I liked the works of Bacon my fierce aunts would rise and say, "By your reason you're forsaken, since you read that stuff all day!" So, ignoring the objectives of the good and wise and true, I commune with punk detectives who've just found a hopeful clew.

PRESIDENT'S LOT FAR FROM EASY ONE, HARDING SAYS; LONGS TO BE "HOME" AGAIN.

Warren G. Harding, who rode into Marion forty years ago on a white mule and came back Tuesday in a limousine as the President of the United States, prefers Marion to the White House and Washington.

"I'll welcome the day," the President told the Marionites, "when I can come back to stay with you permanently. A great many people think it is a fine thing to be President, and I suppose it is the best thing to let them continue such a pleasant dream. But I know better, and I would like nothing better than to be a Marionite again."

"At the risk of being undignified, I will relate an experience. My father had moved to Marion from a farm near Caledonia the winter before I came.

"When he moved to Marion he left a mule behind, because the mule was known so well in the vicinity that he could not be sold at a profit, and yet so valuable that he could not sacrifice it. So when I came to Marion, July 1, I was permitted to ride the mule, as it was the easiest way to bring me here. I started early in the afternoon, but this mule had only one gait. You couldn't throw him into second or third, and you couldn't step on the gas or anything.

"The evening shades were falling when I reached the vicinity of the Roberts farm, three or four miles out of Marion. The situation was looking dark to me, and I stopped to ask an old fellow who was smoking a pipe how far it was to Marion. Without cracking a smile, he replied: 'Well, if you are going to ride that mule, it is farther than you'll ever get.'

"As I neared the town the evening bells were ringing for the mid-week prayer. I do not know that I have ever heard a concert of bells that sounded so sweetly.

"If I could go back somehow to that day I would make a little more permanent and a little more influential the tendency to religious worship that is the softening influence in American life."

PROHIBITION AND THE RIGHT TO WORK STRONGLY UPHOLD BY HARDING.

Warren G. Harding's effort to forget he is President of the United States and to greet his home-town people with simple words of renewed acquaintanceship failed as he stood before 50,000 of them at the Marion Fair Grounds.

Governments, the President said, speaking with great earnestness, cannot tolerate class or group domination. It will be a sorry day for the American people, he predicted, when such domination is reflected in national law.

"A free American has the right to labor without any other's leave," the President asserted, referring directly to the recent murder of more than a score of workers in the mine fields of Southern Illinois. "It would be no less an abridgement of right to deny men to bargain collectively. The Government cannot tolerate any class or group domination by force. Government, and the laws which it is charged with enforcing, must be for all the people ever aiming at the common good."

The President's words gave added significance to statements of General Pershing, who spoke just before the President.

"When whole communities," said General Pershing, "openly sympathize with ruthless murder of inoffensive people in the exercise of their right to earn a living and where wholesale murder goes unpunished, it is imperative that public opinion should demand the strong arm of the law, under fearless officials, take positive action."

The President's remarks had the familiar ring of his campaign utterances and his castigation of group and class legislation and the tendency of self-center minorities to attempt to dictate to Government, was only a repetition of his Labor Day speech of 1920, delivered at the same place and to many of the same people. But Mr. Harding spoke with greater sureness, or at least a greater conviction, born of a year and a half experience as President and with the knowledge that only responsibility can give.

The President also had other warnings for his hearers, in one of which, on the subject of prohibition, he differed from his Secretary of War, Mr. Weeks.

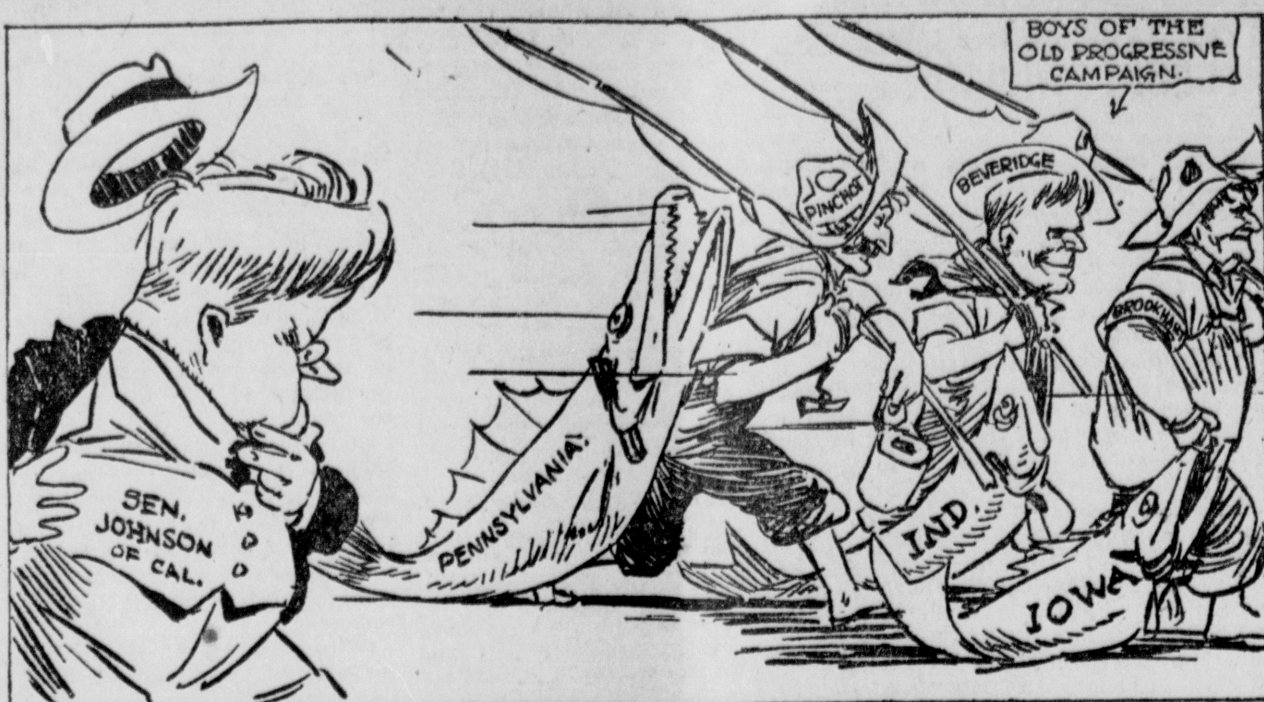

"The Eighteenth Amendment," said the President, "denies to a minority a fancied sense of personal liberty, but the amendment is the will of America and must be sustained by the Government and public opinion, else contempt of the law will undermine our very foundation."

The efforts of certain individuals and groups, which have power to influence public opinion, to inflame the people or misrepresent national events, were deplored by the President.

"My one outstanding conviction after sixteen months in the presidency," asserted the President, "is that the greatest traitor to his country is he who appeals to prejudices and inflames passion, when sober judgment and honest speech are so necessary to firmly establish tranquility and security.

"I have no fear about the Republic. We are not only stronger, but we are morally better than when we began. If there is seeming excess of exploitation, profiteering, dishonesty and betrayal, it only is because we have grown larger, and we know the ills of life and read of them more than the good that is done. I do not wonder that the ignorant and ill-informed are made restless by the magnified stories of public abuses and proclaimed privileges. We need the truth, only the truth, the wholesome truth, as the highest aid to Americanization and the manifestation of the higher patriotism. America will go on."

manager of "Tut" Jackson, Washington C. H. colored heavyweight.

Palmer recently signed articles with the Miami Club for a bout between Jackson and Jamaica Kid, New York colored heavy, to be staged July 17. After signing the articles Palmer gave Yinger a check for $500 to guarantee Jackson's appearance on the date set.

Some days later, after the Dayton club had gone a head with its arrangements for the show, Yinger received a wire from Palmer stating that he could not permit Jackson to go through with the fight. Yinger consulted an attorney and then deposited Palmer's guarantee check for $500, which came back marked "no funds," according to Yinger.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

CONCENTRATION . . . I am reminded time and time again that concentration is, in my humble judgment, one of the major virtues!

Take the average human worker today, give him a task and then leave him and you are almost sure to see a picture of wobbling and stargazing.

I have in mind a poor immigrant boy whose father and mother could neither read nor write, but whose desire to see their small boy do the thing they had missed, was so strong that the mother said she would rather starve than not see him get an education.

It has been my pleasure to see that boy rise year by year in usefulness and power. I have watched him work. He concentrates. He gets things done. Then he goes to other things—and gets them done.

What a debt the world owes to Marconi, the great inventor of the wireless telephone! It was only a little while ago that his announcements were received with doubt and skepticism. Now the entire world listens when he has an announcement, for they have seen the practical demonstration of his years and years of concentration. Recently this wizard man stated that he wanted the pleasure of sending a word around the world—in just a few minutes. I am one who expects to see him accomplish this ambition.

You with the ability to concentrate and the inclination to plan ahead—the world wants you!

Concentration gets things started, puts them through to a finish—and then opens up new and more important things to do.

And concentration arouses interest, which is one of the greatest factors in any success.

I can imagine Columbus going to bed at night and waking up in the morning with but one single thought in his mind—new land, an undiscovered world!

For, after one of the most daring attempts in the history of the world at that time, he won his goal—because when everything and all on board seemed lost forever, this Columbus could give but one command: "Sail on—and on—and on!"

I'll change that command just a little and make it into a motto for you who read this brief talk: Keep on—and on—and on.

DAUGHTER HAD TO HELP MOTHER

Now Can Do All Her Housework Alone Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Jasper, Minn. — "I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it because I was having such pains in my stomach and through my back that I could not do my work. I had tried other medicines, but none did me the good that your Vegetable Compound did. Now I am able to do all my work alone while before I had my daughter staying at home to do it. I have told a number of friends what it has done for me and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. JESSE PETERSEN, Route 1, Jasper, Minn.

There is no better reason for your trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than this—it has helped other women. So if you suffer from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or are passing through the Change of Life remember this splendid medicine. What it did for Mrs. Petersen it may do for you.

The Vegetable Compound stands upon a foundation of nearly fifty years of service.

Rippling Rhymes

FOOLING AWAY TIME.

That my taste needs some correctives I admit with streaming eyes, for with yarns of cheap detectives I waste hours that I should prize. I should read the volumes deathless writ by men of bulging domes, but I follow, pale and breathless, the exploits of Sherlock Holmes. While my wiser neighbor traces Einstein's theory to its source, I, with Cleek of Forty Faces, mix with sinners vile and coarse. I pass up the stately diction of philosophers and seers, and the tinhorn sleuths of fiction are my comrades through the years. And my aunts, with eyes accusing, tell me how I'm wasting time, but I find the sleuths amusing, and they're surely not a crime. I have found it doesn't matter what a fellow likes to do; some one's bound to rise and splutter burning language over you. If I liked the works of Bacon my fierce aunts would rise and say, "By your reason you're forsaken, since you read that stuff all day!" So, ignoring the objectives of the good and wise and true, I commune with punk detectives who've just found a hopeful clew.

CLIFTON TO CLOSE

With a postponed game between Clifton and Jamestown to be played Saturday, the first half of the initial season of the Zig Zag League, Greene County's community loop, will be brought to a close.

The game to be played Saturday was postponed from an early day in the season, and no matter what the outcome will be, nothing can now unseat Clifton from its well established position at the head of the loop. Clifton has now won four and lost one game, although the dope points to an early victory, a defeat would not change its place in the standing.

The teams now stand as follows:

Team	W	L	Pct.
Clifton	4	1	.800
Jamestown	3	2	.600
Y. Springs	3	3	.500
Bowersville	2	4	.333

Clifton lost its only game during the short half of the season to Yellow Springs earlier in the season, and if it follows the dope and defeats Jamestown Saturday will come through the short season with only one game dropped. Yellow Springs, doped to win the rag in the league, can finish no better than third or a tie for second, while Bowersville, after losing three hard luck games by one-point will finish last.

The schedule so far has provided interesting rivalry and furnished fans with much enjoyment, which predicts its success during the next half of the season, and insures it being carried out next year. The second half of the season will open July 29, with six teams instead of four in the race, and Xenia will be represented.

The American Legion team of Foody Post, newly organized and with a new management, will be Xenia's entry in the loop and a combined nine representing Paintersville and Port William will make the sixth team in the race. The schedule for the second half will be made out at a meeting of the team managers, which will probably be held July 13.

Until the second half of the season opens, there will be no games unless Jamestown should lose to Clifton Saturday, in which event Jamestown will play Bowersville another game. The American Legion team which will represent Xenia will be managed by Albert Tucker, and will comprise many local ball players of prominence. The teams in the league all play Saturday afternoon games.

SEEKS TO PROTECT HOME SPACE OF STRIKING MEN

Chicago, July 8.—"I'm going to protect this little home of ours even if I have to kill some one to do it." This was the emphatic declaration today as Mrs. Julia Gabel, 45, "the Barbara Fritchie of Burnside" who stood guard with a pistol over a little cottage in Burnside and staunchly upheld her husband in his decision to return to work in the shops of the Illinois Central railroad.

At a street corner nearby a score of strikers congregated, scowling menacingly at the Gabel cottage. Some of them had been members of the mob that attempted to storm the little home last night. Mrs. Gabel, armed with a gun, stepped on to her front porch and defied them to molest her.

When Mrs. Gabel awoke this morning however she found that twenty of her flock of chickens were dead—poisoned.

"We've got to pay for our home, said Mrs. Gabel today." Our savings are almost gone. We have counted for years on the pension John will get from the railroad.

"Now they call a strike. We've got to live. John was in the hospital with pneumonia for several months. We must meet our bills. We must get along some way. John is 59 years old now and he's not as strong as he used to be. I told him to go back to work."

"I'm going to protect our little home at all costs. If I have to kill someone to do it, I will kill."

With a postponed game between Clifton and Jamestown to be played Saturday, the first half of the initial season of the Zig Zag League, Greene County's community loop, will be brought to a close.

The game to be played Saturday was postponed from an early day in the season, and no matter what the outcome will be, nothing can now upset Clifton from its well established position at the head of the loop. Clifton has now won four and lost one game, although the dope points to another victory, a defeat would not change its place in the standing.

The teams now stand as follows:

Clifton	W 1	Pct. 1.00
Jamestown	L 1	0.00
Y. Springs	3	3.00
Bowersville	2	2.00

Clifton lost its only game during the short half of the season to Yellow Springs earlier in the season, and if it follows the dope and defeats Jamestown Saturday will come through the short season with only one game dropped. Yellow Springs, doped to win the rag in the league, can finish no better than third or a tie for second, while Bowersville, after losing three hard luck games by one-point will finish last.

The schedule so far has provided interesting rivalry and furnished fans with much enjoyment, which predicts its success during the next half of the season, and insures it being carried out next year. The second half of the season will open July 29, with six teams instead of four in the race, and Xenia will be represented.

The American Legion team of Foody Post, newly organized and with a new management, will be Xenia's entry in the loop and a combined nine representing Paintersville and Port William will make the sixth team in the race. The schedule for the second half will be made out at a meeting of the team managers, which will probably be held July 13.

Until the second half of the season opens, there will be no games unless Jamestown should lose to Clifton Saturday, in which event Jamestown will play Bowersville another game. The American Legion team, which will represent Xenia will be managed by Albert Tucker, and will comprise many local ball players of prominence. The teams in the league all play Saturday afternoon games.

Mr. Johnson was the son of the late Elijah Johnson and his only brother, Aubrey, also died a number of years ago. One half-brother, Frank Johnson, lives at London. He also is survived by his wife, one daughter and two sons.

SEEKS TO PROTECT HOME OF STATE

Chicago, July 8.—"I'm going to protect this little home of ours even if I have to kill some one to do it." This was the emphatic declaration today of Mrs. Julia Gabel, 45, "the Barbara Fritchie of Burnside" who stood guard with a pistol over a little cottage in Burnside and staunchly upheld her husband in his decision to return to work in the shops of the Illinois Central railroad.

At a street corner nearby a score of strikers congregated, scowling menacingly at the Gabel cottage. Some of them had been members of the mob that attempted to storm the little home last night. Mrs. Gabel, armed with a gun, stepped on to her front porch and defied them to molest her.

When Mrs. Gabel awoke this morning however she found that twenty of her flock of chickens were dead—poisoned.

"We've got to pay for our home," said Mrs. Gabel today. "Our savings are almost gone. We have counted for years on the pension John will get from the railroad."

"Now they call a strike. We've got to live. John was in the hospital with pneumonia for several months. We must meet our bills. We must get along some way. John is 59 years old now and he's not as strong as he used to be. I told him to go back to work."

"I'm going to protect our little home at all costs. If I have to kill someone to do it, I will kill."

PRESIDENT'S LOT FAR FROM EASY ONE, HARDING SAYS; LONGS TO BE "HOME" AGAIN.

Warren G. Harding, who rode into Marion forty years ago on a white mule and came back Tuesday in a limousine as the President of the United States, prefers Marion to the White House and Washington.

"I'll welcome the day," the President told the Marionites, "when I can come back to stay with you permanently. A great many people think it is a fine thing to be President, and I suppose it is the best thing to let them continue such a pleasant dream. But I know better, and I would like nothing better than to be a Marionite again."

"At the risk of being undignified, I will relate an experience. My father had moved to Marion from a farm near Caledonia the winter before I came.

"When he moved to Marion he left a mule behind, because the mule was known so well in the vicinity that he could not be sold at a profit, and yet so valuable that he could not sacrifice it. So when I came to Marion, July 1, I was permitted to ride the mule, as it was the easiest way to bring me here. I started early in the afternoon, but this mule had only one gait. You couldn't throw him into second or third, and you couldn't step on the gas or anything.

"The evening shades were falling when I reached the vicinity of the Roberts farm, three or four miles out of Marion. The situation was looking dark to me, and I stopped to ask an old fellow who was smoking a pipe how far it was to Marion. Without cracking a smile, he replied: 'Well, if you are going to ride that mule, it is farther than you'll ever get.'

"As I neared the town the evening bells were ringing for the mid-week prayer. I do not know that I have ever heard a concert of bells that sounded so sweetly.

"If I could go back somehow to that day I would make a little more permanent and a little more influential the tendency to religious worship that is the softening influence in American life."

PROHIBITION AND THE RIGHT TO WORK STRONGLY UPHOLD BY HARDING.

Warren G. Harding's effort to forget he is President of the United States and to greet his home-town people with simple words of renewed acquaintanceship failed as he stood before 50,000 of them at the Marion Fair Grounds.

Governments, the President said, speaking with great earnestness, cannot tolerate class or group domination. It will be a sorry day for the American people, he predicted, when such domination is reflected in national law.

"A free American has the right to labor without any other's leave," the President asserted, referring directly to the recent murder of more than a score of workers in the mine fields of Southern Illinois. "It would be no less an abridgement of right to deny men to bargain collectively. The Government cannot tolerate any class or group domination by force. Government, and the laws which it is charged with enforcing, must be for all the people ever aiming at the common good."

The President's words gave added significance to statements of General Pershing, who spoke just before the President.

"When whole communities," said General Pershing, "openly sympathize with ruthless murder of inoffensive people in the exercise of their right to earn a living and where wholesale murder goes unpunished, it is imperative that public opinion should demand the strong arm of the law, under fearless officials, take positive action."

The President's remarks had the familiar ring of his campaign utterances and his castigation of group and class legislation and the tendency of self-center minorities to attempt to dictate to Government, was only a repetition of his Labor Day speech of 1920, delivered at the same place and to many of the same people. But Mr. Harding spoke with greater sureness, or at least a greater conviction, born of a year and a half experience as President and with the knowledge that only responsibility can give.

The President also had other warnings for his hearers, in one of which, on the subject of prohibition, he differed from his Secretary of War, Mr. Weeks.

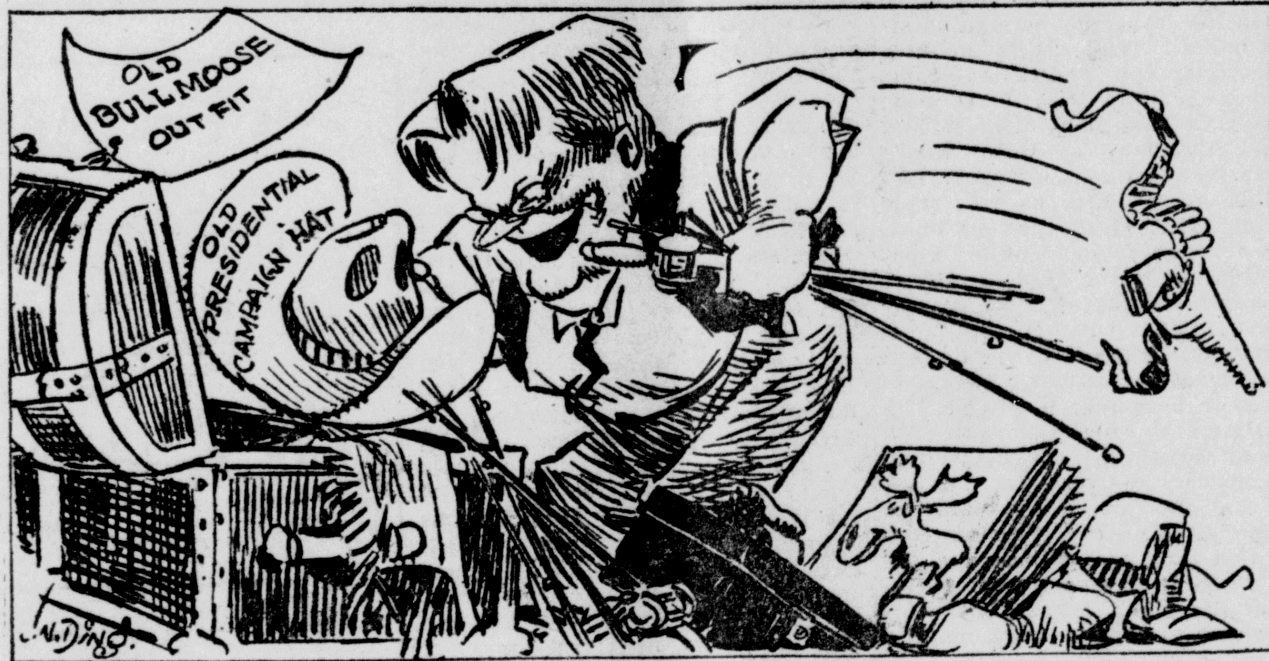

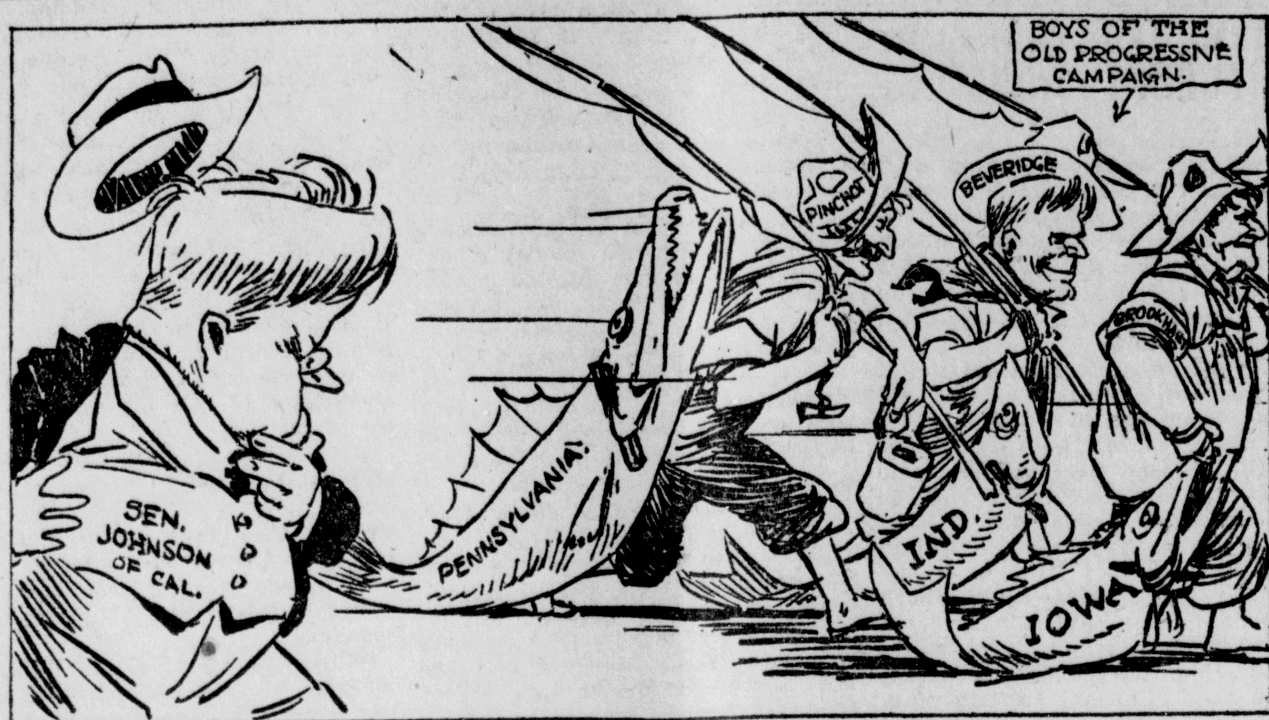

"The Eighteenth Amendment," said the President, "denies to a minority a fancied sense of personal liberty, but the amendment is the will of America and must be sustained by the Government and public opinion, else contempt of the law will undermine our very foundation."

The efforts of certain individuals and groups, which have power to influence public opinion, to inflame the people or misrepresent national events, were deplored by the President.

"My one outstanding conviction after sixteen months in the presidency," asserted the President, "is that the greatest traitor to his country is he who appeals to prejudices and inflames passion, when sober judgment and honest speech are so necessary to firmly establish tranquility and security."

"I have no fear about the Republic. We are not only stronger, but we are morally better than when we began. If there is seeming excess of exploitation, profiteering, dishonesty and betrayal, it only is because we have grown larger, and we know the ills of life and read of them more than the good that is done. I do not wonder that the ignorant and ill-informed are made restless by the magnified stories of public abuses and proclaimed privileges. We need the truth, only the truth, the wholesome truth, as the highest aid to Americanization and the manifestation of the higher patriotism. America will go on."

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

Greene County farmers are at this time engaged in threshing one of the finest crops of wheat ever grown in this section. Some farmers have threshed a 50-acre crop, and others 35 bushels.

Attorney Charles H. Kyle will leave this evening for a business trip to Chicago, to be absent a couple of days.

The dials in the court house tower were lighted for a short time last night. The clock showed up in a handsome way and was visible from nearly all parts of the city.

The Xenia Lodge of Elks has under consideration at this time a very important question, that of purchasing a new home for the lodge, and active steps have been taken with this end in view. The residence of Attorney Marcus Shoup, on East Main street, may be purchased by the lodge.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

CONCENTRATION . . . I am reminded time and time again that concentration is, in my humble judgment, one of the major virtues!

Take the average human worker today, give him a task and then leave him and you are almost sure to see a picture of wobbling and stargazing.

I have in mind a poor immigrant boy whose father and mother could neither read nor write, but whose desire to see their small boy do the thing they had missed, was so strong that the mother said she would rather starve than not see him get an education.

It has been my pleasure to see that boy rise year by year in usefulness and power. I have watched him work. He concentrates. He gets things done. Then he goes to other things—and gets them done.

What a debt the world owes to Marconi, the great inventor of the wireless telephone! It was only a little while ago that his announcements were received with doubt and skepticism. Now the entire world listens when he has an announcement, for they have seen the practical demonstration of his years and years of concentration. Recently this wizard man stated that he wanted the pleasure of sending a word around the world—in just a few minutes. I am one who expects to see him accomplish this ambition. You with the ability to concentrate and the inclination to plan ahead—the world wants you!

Concentration gets things started, puts them through to a finish—and then opens up new and more important things to do.

And concentration arouses interest, which is one of the greatest factors in any success.

I can imagine Columbus going to bed at night and waking up in the morning with but one single thought in his mind—new land, an undiscovered world!

For, after one of the most daring attempts in the history of the world at that time, he won his goal—because when everything and all on board seemed lost forever, this Columbus could give but one command: "Sail on—and on—and on!"

I'll change that command just a little and make it into a motto for you who read this brief talk: Keep on—and on—and on.

SWEARS OUT WARRANT FOR "TUTS" MANAGER

Max Yinger, boxing promoter of the Miami Athletic Club, Dayton, swore out a warrant in Dayton municipal court Friday for Billy Palmer manager of "Tut" Jackson, Washington C. H. colored heavyweight.

Palmer recently signed articles with the Miami Club for a bout between Jackson and Jamaica Kid, New York colored heavy, to be staged July 17. After signing the articles Palmer gave Yinger a check for $500 to guarantee Jackson's appearance on the date set.

Some days later, after the Dayton club had gone a head with its arrangements for the show, Yinger received a wire from Palmer stating that he could not permit Jackson to go through with the fight. Yinger consulted an attorney and then deposited Palmer's guarantee check for $500, which came back marked "no funds," according to Yinger.

DAUGHTER HAD TO HELP MOTHER

Now Can Do All Her Housework Alone Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Jasper, Minn. — "I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it because I was having such pains in my stomach and through my back that I could not do my work. I had tried other medicines, but none did me the good that your Vegetable Compound did. Now I am able to do all my work alone while before I had my daughter staying at home to do it. I have told a number of friends what it has done for me and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. JESSE PETERSEN, Route 1, Jasper, Minn.

There is no better reason for your trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than this—it has helped other women. So if you suffer from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or are passing through the Change of Life remember this splendid medicine. What it did for Mrs. Petersen it may do for you.

The Vegetable Compound stands upon a foundation of nearly fifty years of service.

Rippling Rhymes

By WALT MASON

FOOLING AWAY TIME.

That my taste needs some correctives I admit with streaming eyes, for with yarns of cheap detectives I waste hours that I should prize. I should read the volumes deathless writ by men of bulging domes, but I follow, pale and breathless, the exploits of Sherlock Holmes. While my wiser neighbor traces Einstein's theory to its source, I, with Cleek of Forty Faces, mix with sinners vile and coarse. I pass up the stately diction of philosophers and seers, and the tinhorn sleuths of fiction are my comrades through the years. And my aunts, with eyes accusing, tell me how I'm wasting time, but I find the sleuths amusing, and they're surely not a crime. I have found it doesn't matter what a fellow likes to do; some one's bound to rise and splutter burning language over you. If I liked the works of Bacon my fierce aunts would rise and say, "By your reason you're forsaken, since you read that stuff all day!" So, ignoring the objectives of the good and wise and true, I commune with punk detectives who've just found a hopeful clew.

PRESIDENT'S LOT FAR FROM EASY ONE, HARDING SAYS; LONGS TO BE "HOME" AGAIN.

Warren G. Harding, who rode into Marion forty years ago on a white mule and came back Tuesday in a limousine as the President of the United States, prefers Marion to the White House and Washington.

"I'll welcome the day," the President told the Marionites, "when I can come back to stay with you permanently. A great many people think it is a fine thing to be President, and I suppose it is the best thing to let them continue such a pleasant dream. But I know better, and I would like nothing better than to be a Marionite again."

"At the risk of being undignified, I will relate an experience. My father had moved to Marion from a farm near Caledonia the winter before I came.

"When he moved to Marion he left a mule behind, because the mule was known so well in the vicinity that he could not be sold at a profit, and yet so valuable that he could not sacrifice it. So when I came to Marion, July 1, I was permitted to ride the mule, as it was the easiest way to bring me here. I started early in the afternoon, but this mule had only one gait. You couldn't throw him into second or third, and you couldn't step on the gas or anything.

"The evening shades were falling when I reached the vicinity of the Roberts farm, three or four miles out of Marion. The situation was looking dark to me, and I stopped to ask an old fellow who was smoking a pipe how far it was to Marion. Without cracking a smile, he replied: 'Well, if you are going to ride that mule, it is farther than you'll ever get.'

"As I neared the town the evening bells were ringing for the mid-week prayer. I do not know that I have ever heard a concert of bells that sounded so sweetly.

"If I could go back somehow to that day I would make a little more permanent and a little more influential the tendency to religious worship that is the softening influence in American life."

PROHIBITION AND THE RIGHT TO WORK STRONGLY UPHELD BY HARDING.

Warren G. Harding's effort to forget he is President of the United States and to greet his home-town people with simple words of renewed acquaintanceship failed as he stood before 50,000 of them at the Marion Fair Grounds.

Governments, the President said, speaking with great earnestness, cannot tolerate class or group domination. It will be a sorry day for the American people, he predicted, when such domination is reflected in national law.

"A free American has the right to labor without any other's leave," the President asserted, referring directly to the recent murder of more than a score of workers in the mine fields of Southern Illinois. "It would be no less an abridgement of right to deny men to bargain collectively. The Government cannot tolerate any class or group domination by force. Government, and the laws which it is charged with enforcing, must be for all the people ever aiming at the common good."

The President's words gave added significance to statements of General Pershing, who spoke just before the President.

"When whole communities," said General Pershing, "openly sympathize with ruthless murder of inoffensive people in the exercise of their right to earn a living and where wholesale murder goes unpunished, it is imperative that public opinion should demand the strong arm of the law, under fearless officials, take positive action."

The President's remarks had the familiar ring of his campaign utterances and his castigation of group and class legislation and the tendency of self-centered minorities to attempt to dictate to Government, was only a repetition of his Labor Day speech of 1920, delivered at the same place and to many of the same people. But Mr. Harding spoke with greater sureness, or at least a greater conviction, born of a year and a half experience as President and with the knowledge that only responsibility can give.

The President also had other warnings for his hearers, in one of which, on the subject of prohibition, he differed from his Secretary of War, Mr. Weeks.

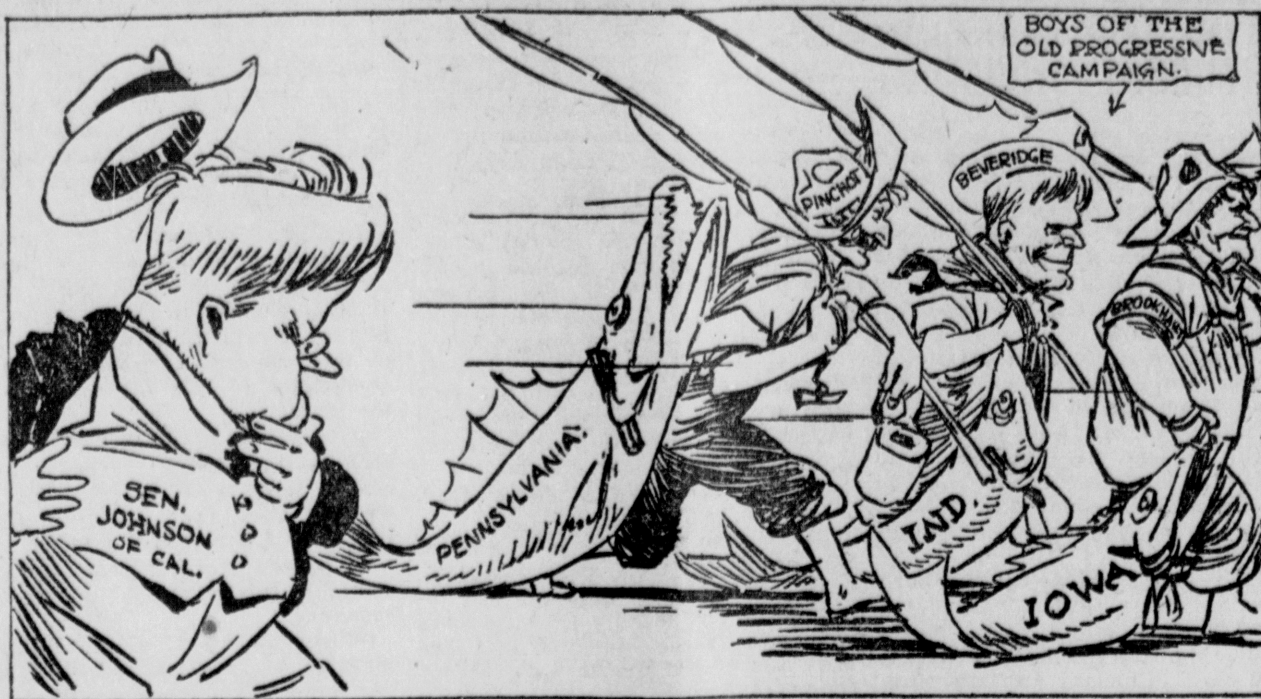

"The Eighteenth Amendment," said the President, "denies to a minority a fancied sense of personal liberty, but the amendment is the will of America and must be sustained by the Government and public opinion, else contempt of the law will undermine our very foundation."

The efforts of certain individuals and groups, which have power to influence public opinion, to inflame the people or misrepresent national events, were deplored by the President.

"My one outstanding conviction after sixteen months in the presidency," asserted the President, "is that the greatest traitor to his country is he who appeals to prejudices and inflames passion, when sober judgment and honest speech are so necessary to firmly establish tranquility and security.

"I have no fear about the Republic. We are not only stronger, but we are morally better than when we began. If there is seeming excess of exploitation, profiteering, dishonesty and betrayal, it only is because we have grown larger, and we know the ills of life and read of them more than the good that is done. I do not wonder that the ignorant and ill-informed are made restless by the magnified stories of public abuses and proclaimed privileges. We need the truth, only the truth, the wholesome truth, as the highest aid to Americanization and the manifestation of the higher patriotism. America will go on."

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

Greene County farmers are at this time engaged in threshing one of the finest crops of wheat ever grown in this section. Some farmers have threshed a 50-acre crop, and others 35 bushels.

Attorney Charles H. Kyle will leave this evening for a business trip to Chicago, to be absent a couple of days.

The dials in the court house tower were lighted for a short time last night. The clock showed up in a handsome way and was visible from nearly all parts of the city.

The Xenia Lodge of Elks has under consideration at this time a very important question, that of purchasing a new home for the lodge, and active steps have been taken with this end in view. The residence of Attorney Marcus Shoup, on East Main street, may be purchased by the lodge.

manager of "Tut" Jackson, Washington C. H. colored heavyweight.

Palmer recently signed articles with the Miami Club for a bout between Jackson and Jamaica Kid, New York colored heavy, to be staged July 17. After signing the articles Palmer gave Yinger a check for $500 to guarantee Jackson's appearance on the gate set.

Some days later, after the Dayton club had gone, a head with its arrangements for the show, Yinger received a wire from Palmer stating that he could not permit Jackson to go through with the fight. Yinger consulted an attorney and then deposited Palmer's guarantee check for $500, which came back marked "no funds," according to Yinger.

I am reminded time and time again that concentration is, in my humble judgment, one of the major virtues!

Take the average human worker today, give him a task and then leave him and you are almost sure to see a picture of wobbling and stargazing.

I have in mind a poor immigrant boy whose father and mother could neither read nor write, but whose desire to see their small boy do the thing they had missed, was so strong that the mother said she would rather starve than not see him get an education.

It has been my pleasure to see that boy rise year by year in usefulness and power. I have watched him work. He concentrates. He gets things done. Then he goes to other things—and gets them done.

What a debt the world owes to Marconi, the great inventor of the wireless telephone! It was only a little while ago that his announcements were received with doubt and skepticism. Now the entire world listens when he has an announcement, for they have seen the practical demonstration of his years and years of concentration. Recently this wizard man stated that he wanted the pleasure of sending a word around the world—in just a few minutes. I am one who expects to see him accomplish this ambition.

You with the ability to concentrate and the inclination to plan ahead—the world wants you!

Concentration gets things started, puts them through to a finish—and then opens up new and more important things to do.

And concentration arouses interest, which is one of the greatest factors in any success.

I can imagine Columbus going to bed at night and waking up in the morning with but one single thought in his mind—new land, an undiscovered world!

For, after one of the most daring attempts in the history of the world at that time, he won his goal—because when everything and all on board seemed lost forever, this Columbus could give but one command: "Sail on—and on—and on!"

I'll change that command just a little and make it into a motto for you who read this brief talk: Keep on—and on—and on.

FOOLING AWAY TIME.

That my taste needs some correctives I admit with streaming eyes, for with yarns of cheap detectives I waste hours that I should prize. I should read the volumes deathless writ by men of bulging domes, but I follow, pale and breathless, the exploits of Sherlock Holmes. While my wiser neighbor traces Einstein's theory to its source, I, with Cleek of Forty Faces, mix with sinners vile and coarse. I pass up the stately diction of philosophers and seers, and the tinhorn sleuths of fiction are my comrades through the years. And my aunts, with eyes accusing, tell me how I'm wasting time, but I find the sleuths amusing, and they're surely not a crime. I have found it doesn't matter what a fellow likes to do; some one's bound to rise and splatter burning language over you. If I liked the works of Bacon my fierce aunts would rise and say, "By your reason you're forsaken, since you read that stuff all day!" So, ignoring the objectives of the good and wise and true, I commune with punk detectives who've just found a hopeful clew.

DAUGHTER HAD TO HELP MOTHER

Now Can Do All Her Housework Alone Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Jasper, Minn. — "I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it because I was having such pains in my stomach and through my back that I could not do my work. I had tried other medicines, but none did me the good that your Vegetable Compound did. Now I am able to do all my work alone while before I had my daughter staying at home to do it. I have told a number of friends what it has done for me and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. JESSE PETERSEN, Route 1, Jasper, Minn.

There is no better reason for your trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than this—it has helped other women. # 216 LEAGUE

216 LEAGUE

216 LEAGUE

With a postponed game between Clifton and Jamestown to be played Saturday, the first half of the initial season of the Zig Zag League, Greene County's community loop, will be brought to a close.

The game to be played Saturday was postponed from an early day in the season, and no matter what the outcome will be, nothing can now unseat Clifton from its well established position at the head of the loop. Clifton has now won four and lost one game, although the dope points to another victory, a defeat would not change its place in the standing.

The teams now stand as follows:

Team	W	L	Pct.
Clifton	4	1	.800
Jamestown	3	2	.600
Y. Springs	3	3	.500
Bowersville	2	4	.333

Clifton lost its only game during the short half of the season to Yellow Springs earlier in the season, and if it follows the dope and defeats Jamestown Saturday will come through the short season with only one game dropped. Yellow Springs, doped to win the rag in the league, can finish no better than third or a tie for second, while Bowersville, after losing three hard luck games by one-point will finish last.

The schedule so far has provided interesting rivalry and furnished fans with much enjoyment, which predicts its success during the next half of the season, and insures it being carried out next year. The second half of the season will open July 29, with six teams instead of four in the race, and Xenia will be represented.

The American Legion team of Foody Post, newly organized and with a new management, will be Xenia's entry in the loop and a combined nine representing Paintersville and Port William will make the sixth team in the race. The schedule for the second half will be made out at a meeting of the team managers which will probably be held July 13.

Until the second half of the season opens, there will be no games unless Jamestown should lose to Clifton Saturday, in which event Jamestown will play Bowersville another game. The American Legion team which will represent Xenia will be managed by Albert Tucker, and will comprise many local ball players of prominence. The teams in the league all play Saturday afternoon games.

Harley H. Johnson, 47, managing editor of the Ann Arbor Times-News, and a former Greene County man, died in Ann Arbor last Saturday evening and was buried there Monday, according to word received here by Melvin S. Johnson, a cousin.

Mr. Johnson had been ill for five months, and following a sudden attack of pneumonia. He was born in Bowersville and learned the printing trade in the office of the Greene County Journal at Jamestown. He left there when a young man, and afterward for a number of years was managing editor of the Akron Beacon-Journal and for a time held the same position on the Springfield Gazette.

From Springfield Mr. Johnson went to Ann Arbor where he made the Ann Arbor Times-News one of the best papers in any city of that size in the country, his editorials being widely copied, while he often lectured at the journalistic college of the University of Michigan.

Mr. Johnson was the son of the late Elijah Johnson and his only brother, Aubrey, also died a number of years ago. One half-brother, Frank Johnson, lives at London. He also is survived by his wife, one daughter and two sons.

Chicago, July 8.—"I'm going to protect this little home of ours even if I have to kill some one to do it," said Mrs. Julia Gabel, 45, "the Barbara Fritchie of Burnside" who stood guard with a pistol over a little cottage in Burnside and staunchly upheld her husband in his decision to return to work in the shops of the Illinois Central railroad.

At a street corner nearby a score of strikers congregated, scowling menacingly at the Gabel cottage. Some of them had been members of the mob that attempted to storm the little home last night. Mrs. Gabel, armed with a gun, stepped on to her front porch and defied them to molest her.

When Mrs. Gabel awoke this morning however she found that twenty of her flock of chickens were dead.

"We've got to pay for our home," said Mrs. Gabel today. "Our savings are almost gone. We have counted for years on the pension John will get from the railroad."

"Now they call a strike. We've got to live. John was in the hospital with pneumonia for several months. We must meet our bills. We must get along some way. John is 59 years old now and he's not as strong as he used to be. I told him to go back to work."

"I'm going to protect our little home at all costs. If I have to kill someone to do it, I will kill."

CLIFTON TO PROTECT STATE OF OHIO

With a postponed game between Clifton and Jamestown to be played Saturday, the first half of the initial season of the Zig Zag League, Greene County's community loop, will be brought to a close.

The game to be played Saturday was postponed from an early day in the season, and no matter what the outcome will be, nothing can now unseat Clifton from its well established position at the head of the loop. Clifton has now won four and lost one game, although the dope points to another victory, a defeat would not change its place in the standing.

The teams now stand as follows:

Clifton	W 1	600
Jamestown	L 1	800
Y. Springs	3	500
Bowersville	2	333

Clifton lost its only game during the short half of the season to low Springs earlier in the season, and if it follows the dope and defeats Jamestown Saturday will come through the short season with only one game dropped. Yellow Springs, doped to win the rag in the league, can finish no better than third or a tie for second, while Bowersville, after losing three hard luck games by one-point will finish last.

The schedule so far has provided interesting rivalry and predicts its success during the next half of the season, and insures it being carried out next year. The second half of the season will open July 29, with six teams instead of four in the race, and Xenia will be represented.

The American Legion team of Foody Post, newly organized and with a new management, will be Xenia's entry in the loop and a combined nine representing Paintersville and Port William will make the sixth team in the race. The schedule for the second half will be made out at a meeting of the team managers, which will probably be held July 13.

Until the second half of the season opens, there will be no games unless Jamestown should lose to Clifton Saturday, in which event Jamestown will play Bowersville another game. The American Legion team which will represent Xenia will be managed by Albert Tucker, and will comprise many local ball players of prominence. The teams in the league all play Saturday afternoon games.

SEEKS TO PROTECT STATE OF OHIO FROM STRIKING LINE

Chicago, July 8.—"I'm going to protect this little home of ours even if I have to kill some one to do it."

This was the emphatic declaration today by Mrs. Julia Gabel, 45, "the Barbara Fritchie of Burnside" who stood guard with a pistol over a little cottage in Burnside and staunchly upheld her husband in his decision to return to work in the shops of the Illinois Central railroad.

At a street corner nearby a score of strikers congregated, scowling menacingly at the Gabel cottage. Some of them had been members of the mob that attempted to storm the little home last night. Mrs. Gabel, armed with a gun, stepped on to her front porch and defied them to molest her.

When Mrs. Gabel awoke this morning however she found that twenty of her flock of chickens were dead—poisoned.

"We've got to pay for our home," said Mrs. Gabel today. "Our savings are almost gone. We have counted for years on the pension John will get from the railroad."

"Now they call a strike. We've got to live. John was in the hospital with pneumonia for several months. We must meet our bills. We must get along some way. John is 59 years old now and he's not as strong as he used to be. I told him to go back to work."

"I'm going to protect our little home at all costs. If I have to kill someone to do it, I will kill."

PHYSICIANS START INVESTIGATION INTO TYPHOID EPIDEMIC

While city physicians in meetings, Friday evening, at the office of Dr. R. H. Grube, County Health Commissioner, to discuss the epidemic of typhoid fever that is reported in Xenia, declared they believed the municipal water supply to be pure, several doctors Saturday, urged residents to continue to boil water for drinking purposes as a safeguard.

Steps were taken at the meeting Friday for an investigation into the milk supply of the city. Dr. Grube said Saturday that the trouble might possibly be traced to that source.

The ten physicians, who attended the meeting are planning to make an investigation of the various dairies and milk supply houses of the city immediately. State authorities have been notified of existing conditions, and will aid in making the canvass of the dairies, it is said.

Twenty-five cases, including many doubtful ones, about fifteen of which doctors were certain to be typhoid, had been reported to Dr. Grube Saturday. The cases, according to Dr. Grube have all been reported within the last few days.

The nature of the disease, which keeps doctors in doubt as to the definite cause, resulted in the sudden report of the large number of cases, he said.

The same investigation that has been carried on in the city by authorities since the first report of the existence of the disease that of waiting a war on flies, and the disinfection of unsanitary sources and surface drainage, will be continued according to Dr. Grube who is confident that the epidemic will be stopped and further spread of the disease made impossible.

"The people needn't be afraid of the city water supply," Dr. Grube said Saturday, "for the reason that forty analyses have been taken of the water within the past five or six weeks, and has been found to stand a high sanitary test. The specimens have been taken by state authorities all over the city each supply showing an equally high test."

The canvass of the city dairies which is being planned will be similar to that conducted by state authorities in May, according to Dr. Grube, who stated at that time conditions were found to be good, and all suspicious instances done away with.

Dr. Grube has requested state authorities to send to this city the same data that was gathered during the last investigation, which will be gone over to combat the new epidemic.

The investigation which is being planned among the dairy houses does not throw any suspicious light on any one dairy in the city, according to Dr. Grube.

Dr. Grube expressed the utmost confidence in the methods taken to combat the disease, and stated that due to the cooperation of all physicians the epidemic was cause for no alarm.

Instances in homes or other places where sanitary conditions are found to be not of the best will be dealt with and disinfectants distributed in each place. Dr. Grube, referring to his statement issued a few days ago, in reference to the flies and surface drainage of the city, explained that this condition affects families over the city, even where the utmost care is exercised, since flies and other carriers quickly spread the disease to all parts of the city.

CARBO-HYDRATE LEGS

A food expert has recently written an interesting article which he calls Carbo-Hydrate legs. He says that too much starch and sugar in the diet, that is too much carbohydrates, produce legs that lose their swiftness, and arms that begin to fail in strength after the thirtieth year, to say nothing of a heart that ceases to be youthful long before its time. Too much meat, too much white bread, too many potatoes and not enough fresh vegetables and fruits form a diet that is very stimulating at first, but one that will not keep a man or woman from going stale young.

Recent experiments on rats kept in revolving cages showed the following interesting results. The rats fed exclusively on meat went well at the beginning, but soon dropped from exhaustion. The rats fed exclusively on vegetables and whole wheat went slower but lasted twice as long. The rats fed on white bread and nothing else got no where at all.

The moral of all this is that, if you want a great deal of stimulation and strength up to the time you are 30 live on meat and potatoes. If you want to keep the elasticity and resiliency of youth live on a moderate amount of meat and potatoes and a great deal of fresh fruit and fresh vegetables. If you want neither long life nor long youth feed yourself on starchy white bread.

It seems almost hopeless sometimes to make people realize the error of eating white bread. Mothers of growing children particularly make no effort to train the child whose tastes are forming to like the delicious richness of bread made from the whole wheat grain. As a result the child may grow fat on starch, but his system will become overloaded with acids.

BLEACHING THE FINGER NAILS

Ordinary bleaches to keep the complexion soft and white are rarely of any use for bleaching the nails. Something much stronger is required to remove the stains that the finger nails pick up in such miraculous fashion.

Finger nail bleaches should not be drying, though I am afraid most good bleaches have this disadvantage. The best one that I know of for general use is lemon juice which is quite a strong bleach but which, though drying, is less so than most ready-made preparations.

If the nails are badly stained cut a lemon in half and rub the juice thoroughly into the fingertips and in under the nails. Then wash off the juice and rub a little cream or vaseline into the cuticle of the nail, so the lemon juice will not dry and harden this delicate skin. But if there are no decided stains such as those which come from fruit, vegetables or ink, use the lemon juice diluted. The handiest way is to have a small bottle of half lemon juice and half water, always ready in the bath room cupboard.

A little can be rubbed into the fingers every time the hands are washed if the nails need special attention. Another good idea is to squeeze the juice of one quarter of a lemon into the bowl of warm, soapy water that you use when manicuring your nails. This makes the water deliciously fragrant and it cleanses stains while the nails are being cared for. It is not drying used this way because so much cream is rubbed into the nails during the manicuring process.

Just as a hint—when the nails need manicuring and you haven't time to do them, wash them, rub with lemon, dry and polish.

Two Girls:—Possibly the reason your pores are enlarged is due to the fact that you do not contract them after the daily cleansing, in which you have distended the pores through the hot water or the cream massage. Always use plenty of cold water or an ice rub after you have opened the pores and you will have a skin that is so fine there is no chance for blackheads.

Instead of roughing your hair to build it out, try some of the ventilated forms. They can be tucked under a mass of hair and will not show. Another way is to take an artificial curl and form it into a puff. After this is pinned under the mass it acts the same as a ventilated form and can never be detected. It only adds to the natural hair and it lifts the whole mass from the scalp.

Discouraged:—Dark circles around the eyes come from internal causes. Sometimes it is merely sluggishness of the liver, but in many cases it has its origin in a prolated organ which is depressing the nervous system.

All:—As you have eczema you should have the doctor prescribe for you. You will overcome the tendency to a double chin if you keep the flesh firm.

M. N.:—The best thing that I know of to cure dandruff and correct other troubles with the scalp is the "Pilocarpine Tonic," for which I will be glad to mail the formula to you on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope. I am pleased to hear that you have succeeded so well with the creams and the one in which there is a quantity of almond oil will also serve as a night cream as it is very nourishing. There is no charge for the service.

M. J. K.:—If you send me a stamped addressed envelope, I shall be glad to mail the cream and stringent formulas.

AN IDEAL COTTAGE

DESIGNED BY CHAS. A. BRIDGEMAN

Ideal in many respects is the six room and bath cottage shown today. For the person who is thinking about building out in the suburbs somewhere, or even on a nice sized lot within the city, today's model is one that pleases many individual tastes. Not only does it give an attractive appearance, but its floor plans are exceptionally well arranged.

On the first floor are a large living room with open fireplace and stairway ascending therefrom, a dining room featured by a sunny bay window, a kitchen, up-to-date pantry and a service porch with space for refrigerator. An added feature is the ability to go upstairs from the kitchen as well as from the front part of the house. A large sun parlor, which in summer-time could be made into a charming open air sitting room, is an attractive feature. Upstairs there are three nice sized bed rooms, a sleeping porch, bath room and a number of closets.

As shown here this house is of frame construction with brick to the first story window sills and stucco above. It has a concrete foundation, with basement that is seven feet six inches high. The first story is nine feet high and the second eight feet high. Birch flooring is used throughout, also birch woodwork enameled on both floors with doors downstairs stained mahogany. The roof is shingled and stained with creosote. The total size of this house is twenty-four feet wide by thirty-eight feet deep. The estimated cost, exclusive of the plumbing and heating, is put at between $4,500 and $6,000.

PHYSICIANS START INVESTIGATION INTO TYPHOID EPIDEMIC

While city physicians in meeting, Friday evening, at the office of Dr. R. H. Grube, County Health Commissioner, to discuss the epidemic of typhoid fever that is reported in Xenia, declared they believed the municipal water supply to be pure, several doctors Saturday, urged residents to continue to boil water for drinking purposes as a safeguard.

Steps were taken at the meeting Friday for an investigation into the milk supply of the city. Dr. Grube said Saturday that the trouble might possibly be traced to that source.

The ten physicians, who attended the meeting are planning to make an investigation of the various dairies and milk supply houses of the city immediately. State authorities have been notified of existing conditions, and will aid in making the canvass of the dairies, it is said.

Twenty-five cases, including many doubtful ones, about fifteen of which doctors were certain to be typhoid, had been reported to Dr. Grube Saturday. The cases, according to Dr. Grube have all been reported within the last few days.

The nature of the disease, which keeps doctors in doubt as to the definite cause, resulted in the sudden report of the large number of cases, he said.

The same investigation that has been carried on in the city by authorities since the first report of the existence of the disease that of waging a war on flies, and the disinfection of unsanitary sources and surface drainage, will be continued according to Dr. Grube who is confident that the epidemic will be stopped and further spread of the disease made impossible.

"The people needn't be afraid of the city water supply," Dr. Grube said Saturday, "for the reason that forty analyses have been taken of the water within the past five or six weeks, and has been found to stand a high sanitary test. The specimens have been taken by state authorities all over the city each supply showing an equally high test."

The canvass of the city dairies which is being planned will be similar to that conducted by state authorities in May, according to Dr. Grube, who stated at that time conditions were found to be good, and all suspicious instances done away with.

Dr. Grube has requested state authorities to send to this city the same data that was gathered during the last investigation, which will be gone over to combat the new epidemic.

The investigation which is being planned among the dairy houses does not throw any suspicious light on any one dairy in the city, according to Dr. Grube.

Dr. Grube expressed the utmost confidence in the methods taken to combat the disease, and stated that due to the cooperation of all physicians the epidemic was cause for no alarm.

Instances in homes or other places where sanitary conditions are found to be not of the best will be dealt with and disinfectants distributed in each place. Dr. Grube, referring to his statement issued a few days ago, in reference to the flies and surface drainage of the city, explained that this condition affects families over the city, even where the utmost care is exercised, since flies and other carriers quickly spread the disease to all parts of the city.

CARBO-HYDRATE LEGS

A food expert has recently written an interesting article which he calls Carbo-Hydrate legs. He says that too much starch and sugar in the diet, that is too much carbohydrates, produce legs that lose their swiftness, and arms that begin to fail in strength after the thirtieth year, to say nothing of a heart that ceases to be youthful long before its time. Too much meat, too much white bread, too many potatoes and not enough fresh vegetables and fruits form a diet that is very stimulating at first, but one that will not keep a man or woman from going stale young.

Recent experiments on rats kept in revolving cages showed the following interesting results. The rats fed exclusively on meat went well at the beginning, but soon dropped from exhaustion. The rats fed exclusively on vegetables and whole wheat went slower but lasted twice as long. The rats fed on white bread and nothing else got no where at all.

The moral of all this is that, if you want a great deal of stimulation and strength up to the time you are 30 live on meat and potatoes. If you want to keep the elasticity and resiliency of youth live on a moderate amount of meat and potatoes and a great deal of fresh fruit and fresh vegetables. If you want neither long life nor long youth feed yourself on starchy white bread.

It seems almost hopeless sometimes to make people realize the error of eating white bread. Mothers of growing children particularly make no effort to train the child whose tastes are forming to like the delicious richness of bread made from the whole wheat grain. As a result the child may grow fat on starch, but his system will become overloaded with acids.

BLEACHING THE FINGER NAILS

Ordinary bleaches to keep the complexion soft and white are rarely of any use for bleaching the nails. Something much stronger is required to remove the stains that the finger nails pick up in such miraculous fashion.

Finger nail bleaches should not be drying, though I am afraid most good bleaches have this disadvantage. The best one that I know of for general use is lemon juice which is quite a strong bleach but which, though drying, is less so than most ready-made preparations.

If the nails are badly stained cut a lemon in half and rub the juice thoroughly into the fingertips and in under the nails. Then wash off the juice and rub a little cream or vaseline into the cuticle of the nail, so the lemon juice will not dry and harden this delicate skin. But if there are no decided stains such as those which come from fruit, vegetables or ink, use the lemon juice diluted. The handiest way is to have a small bottle of half lemon juice and half water always ready in the bath room cupboard.

A little can be rubbed into the fingers every time the hands are washed if the nails need special attention. Another good idea is to squeeze the juice of one quarter of a lemon into the bowl of warm, soapy water that you use when manicuring your nails. This makes the water deliciously fragrant and it cleanses stains while the nails are being cared for. It is not drying used this way because so much cream is rubbed into the nails during the manicuring process.

Just as a hint—when the nails need manicuring and you haven't time to do them, wash them, rub with lemon, dry and polish.

Two Girls:—Possibly the reason your pores are enlarged is due to the fact that you do not contract them after the daily cleansing, in which you have distended the pores through the hot water or the cream massage. Always use plenty of cold water or an ice cube after you have opened the pores and you will have a skin that is so fine there is no chance for blackheads.

Instead of roughing your hair to build it out, try some of the ventilated forms. They can be tucked under a mass of hair and will not show. Another way is to take an artificial curl and form it into a puff. After this is pinned under the mass it acts the same as a ventilated form and can never be detected. It only adds to the natural hair and it lifts the whole mass from the scalp.

Discouraged:—Dark circles around the eyes come from internal causes. Sometimes it is merely sluggishness of the liver, but in many cases it has its origin in a protracted organ which is depressing the nervous system.

All:—As you have eczema you should have the doctor prescribe for you. You will overcome the tendency to a double chin if you keep the flesh firm.

M. N.:—The best thing that I know of to cure dandruff and correct other troubles with the scalp is the "Pilecarpine Tonic," for which I will be glad to mail the formula to you on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope. I am pleased to hear that you have succeeded so well with the creams and the one in which there is a quantity of almond oil will also serve as a night cream and it is very nourishing. There is no charge for the service.

M. J. K.:—If you send me a stamped addressed envelope, I shall be glad to mail the cream and astringent formulas.

AN IDEAL COTTAGE DESIGNED BY CHAS. A. REDGWICK

Ideal in many respects is the six room and bath cottage shown today. For the person who is thinking about building out in the suburbs somewhere, or even on a nice sized lot within the city, today's model is one that pleases many individual tastes. Not only does it give an attractive appearance, but its floor plans are exceptionally well arranged.

On the first floor are a large living room with open fireplace and stairway ascending therefrom, a dining room featured by a sunny bay window, a kitchen, up-to-date pantry and a service porch with space for refrigerator. An added feature is the ability to go upstairs from the kitchen as well as from the front part of the house. A large sun parlor, which in summer-time could be made into a charming open air sitting room, is an attractive feature. Upstairs there are three nice sized bed rooms, a sleeping porch, bath room and a number of closets.

As shown here this house is of frame construction with brick to the first story window sills and stucco above. It has a concrete foundation, with basement that is seven feet six inches high. The first story is nine feet high and the second eight feet high. Birch flooring is used throughout, also birch woodwork enameled on both floors with doors downstairs stained mahogany. The roof is shingled and stained with creosote. The total size of this house is twenty-four feet wide by thirty-eight feet deep. The estimated cost, exclusive of the plumbing and heating, is put at between $4,500 and $6,000.

FORM GIRL SCOUT TROOP AT LUTHERAN CHURCH IN XENIA

Wild Rose Troop, of Xenia, a Girl Scout organization, composed of girls of the First Lutheran Church, and others in the city, has been registered at National Headquarters, the final registration making them the first officially chartered Girl Scouts of Xenia.

The Girl Scouts, with Miss Hazel Schwab, captain, and Miss Kathryn Uhl, lieutenant, have been holding meetings during the past five weeks at the Lutheran Church, on Monday afternoon at two o'clock, each meeting resulting in effecting a worthwhile organization. The registration at National Headquarters took place after the girls had taken the Tenderfoot test, which places the organization eligible to register.

The Girl Scouts wish to share their good times with other girls of Xenia, and are inviting all girls from 10 to 18 years of age, who are interested in Scouting to their next meeting, which will be held at the Lutheran Church Thursday, July 13, at two o'clock. All girls between these ages are urged to place their name with the officers as soon as possible as only a limited number of girls may join.

At a meeting of the Girl Scout Troop Committee, Thursday, the following officers were elected: Mrs. Joseph Schardt, president; Mrs. B. E. Uhl, secretary and Mrs. Lewis Urshel, treasurer.

It was voted at the meeting that the committee meet, first Thursday in every month. Plans were made for the Girl Scouts to earn money for their uniforms.

It was voted to have a meeting for the mothers of Scouts, or girls who wish to be Scouts, at three o'clock, at the Lutheran Church, after the Ladies Aid meeting, Wednesday, July 12. There will be four talks on Scouting given at the meeting, telling what the organization is and how it will benefit the girls. Questions will be answered and discussed. Every mother is invited, especially those having girls from 10 to 18 years of age. All are requested to come prepared to ask questions.

FAIR WILL HAVE FISH AND GAME DISPLAY IS WORD

The first, state fish and game department display ever shown at the Greene County Fair will be a feature of the exhibits at the eighty-third annual fair, to be held August 1, 2, 3 and 4.

This was assured Friday when L. F. Clevenger, president of the Greene County Fish and Game Protective Association received a promise of such an exhibit from A. C. Baxter, chief of the state department, following solicitation by the local club.

Mr. Clevenger was asked to obtain 100 feet of space for the display on the fairgrounds. The display will consist of fish and Ohio game and game birds. The last display of this nature was held in Xenia a number of years ago but this is the first time such an exhibit has been held in connection with the fair.

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman

I have received a splendid letter from a reader of this column which runs: "May I pass along to some of your other readers the accumulations of a busy lifetime of 75 years: Moths lay their eggs after three o'clock in the afternoon, so air your garments and pack them away in the forenoon, when you wish to store them. I kept blankets free from them for years in a barrel lined with builders' tar paper."

Bed Bugs: Persian Powder and Borax, mixed together in equal quantities, and applied by means of a "powder gun" will exterminate these pests. This mixture is perfectly harmless to everything but the bugs. Little Red Ants: To rid the house of these, spray with oil of sassafras.

Big Black Ants that love the sugar jar, can be killed by mixing a good washing powder with sugar and placing this where they ill eat it.

To Brighten Small Pieces of Brass, such as lamp burners, brass handles of furniture or any brass objects not too large, drop them into a pot on the range containing the water in which you have par-boiled beans but from which the beans have been removed. Rub them with a dry cloth to polish.

Tea Made of Raspberry Leaves is excellent for bowel trouble. I always keep a supply of the dried leaves on hand for this purpose.

A Very Old Bread Recipe: (This may be given to invalids instead of brown bread. It was called "Togus Cake" 50 years ago.) Mix together two cups of sweet milk, one cup of sour milk, one cup of molasses, and the following ingredients sifted together: two cups of Indian meal, one cup of flour, one teaspoon soda and one teaspoon of salt. Turn into a can with a tight-fitting cover (an empty baking-powder can will do), tie on the cover, and sink this can in a large kettle of boiling water; let the water boil up around it for five hours.

Some time ago somebody asked you, in the column, how to keep a child's hands and feet warm in winter. My way is to rub them with camphor ice thoroughly. I have hung out clothes bare-handed in bitter cold weather by doing this.

A Fine Home-made Poultice: A saffron poultice—just saffron heated in milk—will take down inflammation when other poultices fail. If one's thumb or finger cracks open in cold weather, it can be healed by a saffron poultice in one application; it takes the pain right out. This is a family remedy that dates back to my grandmother's day. I have also used it on inflamed eyes.

COURT NEWS

CHARGES NEGLECT OF DUTY

Reva Carlisle is plaintiff in an action for divorce from Robert Carlisle, filed in Common Pleas Court Friday. The suit charges gross neglect of duty on numerous occasions. It also charges that the defendant, associated with lewd and immoral women. The petition charges further that the defendant threatened and abused the plaintiff, choking her into unconsciousness July 5, and that he ordered her out of the house and threatened to throw her out. The plaintiff asked for and was allowed a temporary restraining order against the defendant, removing any of the household goods, and she asks further for the custody of the children, Evelyn, aged four and Dorothy, aged two, and for alimony. The Carlises were married November 27, 1917.

A Stenographer's Romance

BY JANE PHLEPS

Nellie Takes Her New Position. Monday Nellie was up early and singing gleefully as she made tea, and set the breakfast on the table. "One would think your job was in Philadelphia! What time did Mr. Robinson tell you to come to work?" Cora asked.

"Nine o'clock."

"And you get us up at seven! Aren't you ashamed?"

"Not a bit! I want to leave things nice. It would be horrid to come home to messy rooms." If Miss Carter had done nothing else for Nellie, she had taught her to be scrupulously neat.

"We'll all help now," Gladys said with a yawn.

"I shan't need your help if you'll get up, Miss Lazy," Gladys loved to sleep in the morning. She often said it was harder to get up than it was to work.

"If I get there before Grandpa does I'll get acquainted with the bookkeeper," Nellie told them.

Nellie found herself even early than the bookkeeper, and so she walked up and down the street until nine o'clock, building air castles. Now that she had a start she would go on and on. She would do her work so well, be so careful about making mistakes, in spelling especially. She had no fear of her typing and there couldn't be so much to do in that little office that the dictation would be too fast for her.

The clock struck nine, and she hurriedly entered the building. In the office she now found a man of about 50, tall, spare, stooped, with rather tired looking eyes.

"Not much of a looker!" Nellie said to herself. To him: "Good morning! I'm the new stenographer."

"Good morning, My name is Smith, John Smith."

"Mine's Riley. Nellie Riley. You wouldn't think I was French, would you?" she asked impudently, thinking she might have known his name would be Smith.

"The name isn't French," he replied slowly.

"No, neither am I! Irish to the back bone." It wasn't going to be any fun to tease the bookkeeper. He was too solemn.

"What times does the boss get in?"

"Any time now. Usually about 9:30 or ten."

"He keeps nice hours. That's one thing."

"Yes—the work—here isn't hard—not for the stenographer."

Nellie wondered why he hesitated so in his speech, and why he looked at her so queerly. But he said nothing more, and she hung up her hat, uncovered the typewriter which needed cleaning, and set about the job, muttering to herself.

"Must have been a sloppy stenog he had to leave a machine like this! Maybe she was like that in her work and that's the reason I got her job."

Her mutterings were interrupted by her employer's entrance.

"Good morning, Miss Riley," he said brightly, "good morning Smith," in a casual tone. "I see you have already found something to do," he stood over the desk where Nellie was cleaning the machine.

He sat down at his own desk and opened the mail. In a few minutes he was ready to give dictation. Nellie trembled a bit, but with perfect composure she sat beside him with pad and pencil. For an hour he dictated slowly, carefully. Nellie had no trouble at all in making her notes, time enough to make them legibly, which meant she would have no trouble transcribing them.

"There, that will do. Bring the letters to me to sign when you have them finished. My mail is unusually heavy on Monday, so it will be a test for you," He smiled kindly at her.

"Gee, but I'm in luck!" Nellie said to herself as she seated herself before her desk, and made ready to type the letters. "A nice man that to treat me like a lady, nor doesn't get fresh either. I'll work all right for him. I will!" which she proceeded to do, by paying strict attention to the work before her.

The day passed quickly. At 4:30 Mr. Robinson said:

"I'm going now. There's no need for you to stay after I go, unless I give you work to do."

Monday—An Hilarious Evening.

A LOSS OF 1% IN 200 YEARS

According to the last published official report of the Bureau of Building & Loan Associations the aggregate amount of all losses taken from the Reserve Fund of Ohio associations was less than the one two-hundredth part of 1%. To be exact, at this rate, they would not lose 1% of their resources until the end of 208 years.

And in the same period which this loss was incurred, these same associations put into their Surplus and Safety Funds, 120 times the amount of their losses. In other words, they put away enough money to pay all their losses, at this rate, for 120 years to come.

In the light of facts and figures like these, there ought to be no doubt in your mind as to the safety of your savings in Dayton Building Associations. They are models of their kind and are all worthy of your fullest confidence. Let us give you other interesting figures and show you what advantages we can offer you.

FORM GIRL SCOUT TROOP AT LUTHERAN CHURCH IN XENIA

Wild Rose Troop, of Xenia, a Girl Scout organization, composed of girls of the First Lutheran Church, and others in the city, has been registered at National Headquarters, the final registration making them the first officially chartered Girl Scouts of Xenia.

The Girl Scouts, with Miss Hazel Schwab, captain, and Miss Kathryn Uhl, lieutenant, have been holding meetings during the past five weeks at the Lutheran Church, on Monday afternoon at two o'clock, each meeting resulting in effecting a worthwhile organization. The registration at National Headquarters took place after the girls had taken the Tenderfoot test, which places the organization eligible to register.

The Girl Scouts wish to share their good times with other girls of Xenia, and are inviting all girls from 10 to 18 years of age, who are interested in Scouting to their next meeting, which will be held at the Lutheran Church Thursday, July 13, at two o'clock. All girls between these ages are urged to place their name with the officers as soon as possible as only a limited number of girls may join.

At a meeting of the Girl Scout Troop Committee, Thursday, the following officers were elected: Mrs. Joseph Schardt, president; Mrs. B. Uhl, secretary and Mrs. Lewis Uhl, treasurer.

It was voted at the meeting that the committee meets, first Thursday in every month. Plans were made for the Girl Scouts to earn money for their uniforms.

It was voted to have a meeting for the mothers of Scouts, or girls who wish to be Scouts, at three o'clock, at the Lutheran Church, after the Ladies Aid meeting, Wednesday, July 12. There will be four talks on Scouting given at the meeting, telling what the organization is and how it will benefit the girls. Questions will be answered and discussed. Every mother is invited, especially those having girls from 10 to 18 years of age. All are requested to come prepared to ask questions.

FAIR WILL HAVE FISH AND GAME DISPLAY IS WORD

The first state fish and game department display ever shown at the Greene County Fair will be a feature of the exhibits at the eighty-third annual fair, to be held August 1, 2, 3 and 4.

This was assured Friday when L. F. Cleveland, president of the Greene County Fish and Game Protective Association received a promise of such an exhibit from A. C. Baxter, chief of the state department, following solicitation by the local club.

Mr. Cleveland was asked to obtain 100 feet of space for the display on the fairgrounds. The display will consist of fish and Ohio game and game birds. The last display of this nature was held in Xenia a number of years ago but this is the first time such an exhibit has been held in connection with the fair.

Efficient Housekeeping

I have received a splendid letter from a reader of this column which runs: "May I pass along to some of your other readers the accumulations of a busy lifetime of 75 years:

Moths lay their eggs after three o'clock in the afternoon, so air your garments and pack them away in the forenoon, when you wish to store them. I kept blankets free from them for years in a barrel lined with builders' tar paper.

Bed Bugs: Perstan Powder and Borax, mixed together in equal quantities, and applied by means of a 'powder gun' will exterminate these pests. This mixture is perfectly harmless to everything but the bugs.

Little Red Ants: To rid the house of these, spray with oil of sassafras.

Big Black Ants that love the sugar jar, can be killed by mixing any good washing powder with sugar and placing this where they ill eat it.

To Brighten Small Pieces of Brass, such as lamp burners, brass handles of furniture or any brass objects not too large, drop them into a pot on the range containing the water in which you have par-boiled beans but from which the beans have been removed. Rub them with a dry cloth to polish.

Tea Made of Raspberry Leaves is excellent for bowel trouble. I always keep a supply of the dried leaves on hand for this purpose.

A Very Old Bread Recipe: (This may be given to invalids instead of brown bread. It was called "Togus Cake" 50 years ago.) Mix together two cups of sweet milk, one cup of sour milk, one cup of molasses, and the following ingredients sifted together: two cups of Indian meal, one cup of flour, one teaspoon soda and one teaspoon of salt. Turn into a can with a tight-fitting cover (an empty baking-powder can will do), tie on the cover, and sink this can in a large kettle of boiling water; let the water boil up around it for five hours.
